Marquis of Crewe States That Investigation is Being Made of Why Success at Loos Was Not Followed Up and Reserves on Hand at Right Time.

By the Associated Press.

Washington, Nov. 16.—Ambassador Penfield at Vienna was instructed by cable today to ask the Austro-Hungarian foreign office for details of the circumstances of the torpedoing of the Italian liner Ancona in the Mediterranean last week, with a loss of several American lives.

London, Nov. 16.—Charges of incompetency and neglect of their work were brought against the British staff in France by Baron Saint Davids in the house of lords this evening when he asked the government whether its attention had been called to the reports alleging that during the recent fighting there had been many complaints as to failures of the staff work.

This action was taken upon the presentation by the Austrian embassy here to Secretary Lansing of a communication from the Vienna admiralty stating that an Austrian submarine sank the Ancona and asserting that ample time for the passengers and crew to escape was afforded.

Lord Saint Davids asserted that men had been assigned to the staff for no military reasons, who ought to be in the trenches and that he had been told that the British headquarters staff was five or six times as large as that of General Joffre, the French commander-in-chief. It had been stated, he continued, that women visited headquarters in France and asked whether the government defended their presence there.

Until responsibility for the action of the submarine, which it had been reported was of German nationality, was thus officially assumed, the American government withheld formal inquiry at Vienna.

The Marquis of Crewe, Lord privy seal, replied that the allegations that success at Loos had been missed owing to the failure to bring up reserves at the right time was the subject of inquiry between the highest authorities that could be invoked.

The undetermined points on which the American government now is seeking information, are:

Lord Crewe had launched his attack without adequate information. "It is true," he said, "that the country has suffered owing for the want of an organized general staff. Nevertheless, there has been evolved a general staff of the highest order. To say that the work of the staff is a failure is to say something which is very far from the truth. As for Field Marshal French, he is up at 6 o'clock in the morning."

Did the submarine fire a warning shot?

The Marquis of Crewe said that from his knowledge of Field Marshal French he thought it exceedingly unlikely that he would submit to having persons placed upon his personal staff, persons who had no hesitation in saying that unless women had business at headquarters they ought not to go there.

Was a torpedo fired while any of the passengers were aboard?

The Marquis of Crewe said that from his knowledge of Field Marshal French he thought it exceedingly unlikely that he would submit to having persons placed upon his personal staff, persons who had no hesitation in saying that unless women had business at headquarters they ought not to go there.

How much time was given passengers and crew to get into the lifeboats?

The Marquis of Crewe said that from his knowledge of Field Marshal French he thought it exceedingly unlikely that he would submit to having persons placed upon his personal staff, persons who had no hesitation in saying that unless women had business at headquarters they ought not to go there.

What were the activities of the submarine while the ship was unloading its passengers?

The Marquis of Crewe said that from his knowledge of Field Marshal French he thought it exceedingly unlikely that he would submit to having persons placed upon his personal staff, persons who had no hesitation in saying that unless women had business at headquarters they ought not to go there.

The fact that the Austrian government assumes responsibility for the action of the submarine disposes, it is believed, of the reports that the undersea boat flew a German flag, but officials are anxious to be satisfied on this point as well. It is considered possible here that the submarine may have been an Austrian craft with some German officers and men aboard, but until the facts are definitely established, there will be no inquiry made by Ambassador Gerard at Berlin. Press reports from Berlin have stated that the German government disclaimed any connection with the incident.

A reply from Ambassador Penfield probably will not be received for several days. Officials would not predict what the character of representation and later assembled in the collection for an evening program.

Future Action of Greece Worries Entente Allies

By the Associated Press.

The Near East is still the center of greatest interest in the world war with the future status of Greece as regards the entente powers the chief points at issue.

With the object of bringing to a head the situation created by the Greek government's seeming indecision in matters which may eventually affect the allies and possibly also with regard to the entry or non entry of the Hellenic kingdom into the war on the side of Serbia and the entente powers, conferences are in progress in Athens between Denys Cochin, a member of the French cabinet, and the ministers of Great Britain and France and the Greek officials.

In addition Earl Kitchener, the British secretary for war, is close at hand on one of the islands in the Aegean Sea and it is thought probable he also will join the conversations, which are expected to determine finally what will be the stand of Greece toward the entente allies or of the entente allies toward Greece.

Russia and Italy also are said to be watching closely the trend of affairs in Athens, which have been engaged for weeks past in an attempt to drive back the Russian line in the Dvinsk sector, has left the eastern for the western front.

Fighting day and night is in progress on the Dobro sector of the Austro-Italian line. The Italians on Monte San Michele several times have entered the Austro-Hungarian positions, according to Vienna, but have been almost completely ejected from them.

The American government has requested from Austria a detailed statement of the torpedoing of the Italian liner Ancona in the Mediterranean last week which resulted in the loss of American lives.

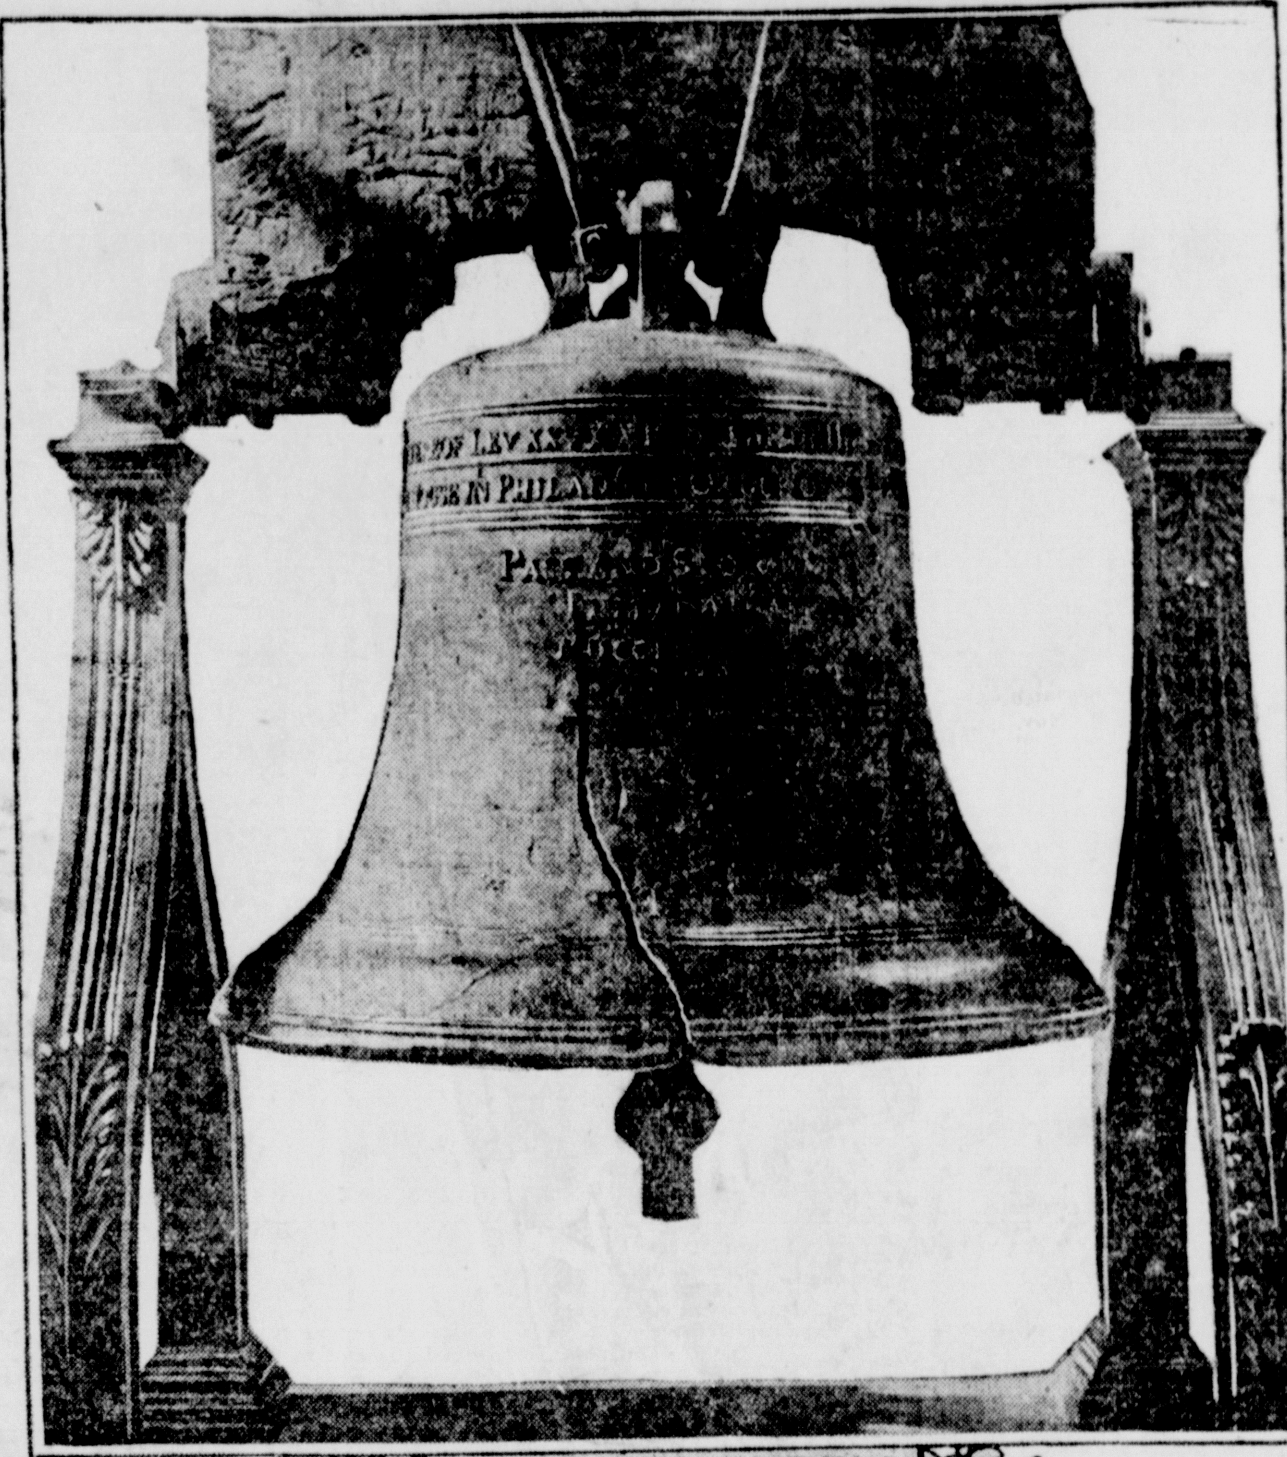

Austrians Claim Progress.

By the Associated Press. Berlin, Nov. 16.—(By Wireless to Sayville, N. Y.)—The Austro-Hungarian army headquarters report of November 16, as received here today, said:

"In the north section of the Dobro highland the engagement continued day and night. On the north slope of Monte San Michele the Austrians several times entered the Austrian positions at night but have been almost completely ejected from them. "In the Balkan theatre the Austrians are advancing everywhere. They have reached the district of Uvace, Cigota, Plana and the Javor heights. "The German detachments of General Koeves have advanced on both sides of the road running from Kralliburg."

Sacred Relic Waco's Guest Today

THE LIBERTY BELL

The Liberty Bell will arrive on a special train at 9:45 tonight, remaining in Waco one hour and twenty minutes. Elaborate arrangements have been made to accommodate the crowds who will view it.

LIBERTY BELL HERE FOR SHORT VISIT TONIGHT AT 9:45

Every arrangement possible has been made that every person who is in Waco tonight may see the long-looked-for Liberty Bell when it rolls in on its specially constructed car north of the Katy depot on Eighth street, at 9:45. The famous relic is scheduled to spend just one hour and twenty minutes in the city, but Mayor J. W. Riggins pledges his best efforts to see that every person in the great multitude which will crowd Eighth street tonight shall get a look at the bell.

Platforms will be on both sides of the special car in order to facilitate the passing of the crowds. Hand rails will surround the platforms and police guards have been delegated to see that the spectators move on rapidly. The crowds will enter on the east end and leave from the west end. Approaches will be constructed so that there will be no pushing and that large numbers may be handled easily.

While in the city, the bell will be in the special care of Chief of Police Guy McNamara, assisted by the two local military companies and members of his department. Arrangements for the visit have been in the hands of Mayor Riggins.

All trains leaving the city at night will be held in order to give visitors an opportunity to see the bell. Return tickets will be issued to visitors in the Cotton Palace grounds after 8:30 p. m. and will be good for today only. Eighth street will be cleared of autos and other vehicles.

A letter to Mayor Riggins yesterday from Charles W. Alexander of Philadelphia, the home of the famous relic of American liberty, reminded Mr. Riggins of the fact that he had received a communication from him on August 9, 1901. In this letter Mr. Riggins made a plea that Waco have a chance to see the bell. Mr. Alexander, who is a member of the

The themes which come saliently to notice in this overture are the opening peal of the trumpet, which is the signal for the popular revolt; Rienzi's prayer, from the fifth act, an excerpt from the spirited finale of the first act, leading to the stirring chorus of salvation to "Rienzi," from the close of the second act.

BOHEMIANS AND CITY OF WEST SHARE HONORS FOR DAY AT COTTON PALACE

Enterprising Town on the Interurban North Sends Crowd of More Than 1000 Representatives—Bohemians Have Large Part in the Day's Program.

LIBERTY BELL AND WOMAN'S DAY TODAY

Nation's Most Precious Relic Visits Waco for One Hour and Twenty Minutes Tonight—Woman's Day Parade This Afternoon Will Be One of Exposition's Greatest Features—Aeroplane Flight Again Tonight.

That latent spirit deep within men and women which responds to the sense of the beautiful will be aroused and ushered into enthusiastic activity between 1 and 3 o'clock this afternoon. The agency extraordinary will be the Woman's Day parade upon Austin avenue—an event that will eclipse any similar effort in the history of expositions in the South and probably throughout the country.

To assure against interruptions and the possibility of confusion, Austin avenue will be denied to commerce from 1 o'clock until the parade has passed. Every intersecting street will end at Austin avenue. Automobiles and vehicles of every character and description will be compelled to vacate that thoroughfare. The ladies of Waco have exercised the right of eminent domain and the city authorities right willingly have surrendered all right, title, claim or other semblance of possession.

The parade, however, will not be the only number on the day's program, although it will be the most spectacular and the one that will attract the greatest number of admiring thousands. There are varied and manifold other attractions that have been prepared to make the day the most notable in the history of the Cotton Palace.

To instance—At the coliseum at night the evolution of dress will be demonstrated by living models. An opportunity will be given Cotton Palace visitors to see every style of dress worn since styles became an institution, up to the present day sartorial charms. The "evolution" has been carefully arranged and promises to be second only to the parade as the big card of the entire Cotton Palace program.

Immediately preceding the style show, a children's entertainment will be given. Several hundred Waco children will participate. So far as it is possible for the citizenry of a town to go visiting, West closed up business yesterday and moved over to the Texas Cotton Palace for the day. Almost nine hundred interurban tickets were sold to Waco and more than a hundred came through in autos on the newly piked Dallas highway. Yesterday was a combination West and Bohemian day, and was marked by West sending the largest single delegation so far to the 1915 exposition. The great representation formed into a parade on arriving at 10:30 a. m. and marched directly to the Palace, where a short program was held in the coliseum. After two addresses and some music, the West-Bohemian crowds dispersed for the afternoon to enjoy the varied exposition and later assembled in the coliseum for an evening program.

Bohemians Have Program.

Giving a true interpretation to the Bohemian spirit which pervaded the Palace yesterday, the coliseum crowd last night were treated to a view of the national Bohemian dance, "The Berda." The dance was given by a number of Bohemians in their national costumes under the direction of Roman Kovika. Novel and interesting, with the music fitted to the peculiar dance formations, the "Berda" proved a decided feature. The folk dances last night represented several months of faithful rehearsals and the securing of dancers from different parts of the state.

Other numbers of the evening Bohemian program consisted of a solo by Miss Eumata, daughter of Victor Bunata of this city, and selections by the West octette, directed by Dr. Geo. Pazdrak of West. Prof. Anton Navratil, of the fine arts department of Baylor university, a Bohemian violin artist, gave several well received numbers.

Mounted marshals headed the parade, with Alessandro's band, Bohemian delegations, the West band and members of the West Y. M. B. L. with other citizens following. "Uncle Johnny Moore, venerable and esteemed justice of the peace of West, was chosen by the business league as their marshal. Joe Janak represented the Bohemians, and Sheriff S. S. Fleming and Deputy Joe Roberts did the honors for Waco. Alessandro's musicians came next in line. The Bohemians, wearing small pennants, followed in

Texas Baptists Decline to Condemn Preparedness as Asked by Dr. Dawson

Special to the Morning News.

Austin, Nov. 16.—Rev. T. J. Talley of Galveston was today elected president of the Laymen and Ministers' Baptist conference, in session here. Senator O. S. Lattimore of Fort Worth was elected vice president and H. C. Bass of Lancaster was chosen recording secretary.

For the presidency, nominations were received of E. P. West of Weatherford, Rev. George McCall of Tarkenton, Mr. West withdrew. Mr. Talley was elected 74 to 53.

An attempt to get the conference to express its disapproval of military preparedness precipitated a hot discussion that for a time disturbed the decorum of that dignified body and made it appear more like a political gathering than a conference of churchmen.

Rev. J. M. Dawson, pastor of the First Baptist church at Waco, informed the president of the conference that he had a resolution he wanted adopted, and he did not believe it would create any discussion. Permission was granted. He read a resolution in which he condemned the practice of civilized nations arming themselves in time of peace, or, in other words, what is known as "military preparedness."

The motion was seconded and from all appearances the resolution was going through without any opposition. A mantle of quietness settled down over the hall, slowly, in another section of the house one of the dele gates rose to his feet. It was Rev. W. A. Jarrell of Dallas.

"I wish to say in the greatest deference to the gentleman who introduced the resolution that I do not feel we should adopt this resolution because it would be a direct criticism of our president and I do not feel that we should embarrass him in any way."

"This resolution deals with the question of self-defense, in which our president is vitally interested. Take, for instance, the cases of Belgium and Switzerland. Switzerland prepared herself in times of peace for an invasion. Belgium did not. Take the result. Belgium is trampled in the dust, while Switzerland stands untouched."

The speaker then started to go into a review of the cause of the war of 1912 and describe the burning of the national capitol because of not being prepared, when one of the delegates moved that the discussion be discontinued and the conference proceed with the regular order of business. This motion carried.

Rev. Mr. Dawson withdrew his resolution, but served notice that he would again introduce it at the proper time.

H. H. Street of Waco delivered an address on "What Our Churches Have a Right to Expect of Our Denominational Schools."

"We expect three things of our schools, first that the students be efficiently educated, second that they be instructed in loyalty to the faith, and third that they come out of the schools equipped for their labors."

More than 1000 delegates were present and delegations are arriving on every train. Sessions will continue through tomorrow, when the state convention will be held. It is estimated that at least 4000 delegates will be present when the convention meets. At the morning session of the conference addresses were made by S. E. Tull of Temple, on "The Place of Denominationalism in Christian Work," T. Y. Neal, San Antonio, on "How to Denominationalize a Church," Forest Smith of Fort Worth on "How to Denominationalize a Pastor."

Other addresses on the day's program were devotionals served by G. B. Fells, Bay City, "The Relation of Education and Evangelism in our Denominational Life," J. B. Weatherston, Fort Worth, "What Our Denominational Schools Have a Right to Expect of Our Churches," J. L. Ward, Decatur.

Devotional services were led by J. B. Holt of Jacksonville, "Christianity and the Problem of Wealth," S. T. Brooks, Waco, "Salvation by Grace," J. B. Gamble, Dallas.

WELCOME, LIBERTY BELL.

Wacoans and thousands of others from Central Texas will have the privilege of doing homage tonight to the Liberty Bell, the emblem of our national liberty, which is paying its first and possibly its only visit to Texas, one state, at least, which has had a history more romantic and thrilling than that of the nation itself.

No one doubts the patriotism or loyalty of Texans to every interest of the nation, and while the old Liberty Bell is but a bit of steel and copper and wood it has come to represent the embodiment of the spirit of our forefathers who threw off the yoke of British bondage and paved the way for making of us a free and independent people.

But for the men who framed the Declaration of Independence, the proclamation of which was signalized by the ringing of the Liberty Bell, our cherished freedom would have been long delayed and the inspiration which the establishment of this nation has given to freedom and independence throughout the world would have been largely lost. Emperor William or King George traveling through their respective countries would receive the spontaneous plaudits of the multitudes. How much more then should the Liberty Bell, the embodiment of those things for which Thomas Jefferson, John Adams, Benjamin Franklin, Richard Henry Lee, Roger Sherman, Robert Livingston and other of our early patriots stood in the foundation of this government be entitled to our reverence and our esteem!

Our tribute to the bell will be to any merit in the bell itself, but to the cause which it has represented throughout the history of the nation, and no country will remain free indefinitely that does not cherish those principles by which it became free. And no man is worthy of the freedom that has been vouchsafed to the citizens of this government who does not cherish the name and memory of the men who were instrumental in throwing off the bondage, thus making our freedom possible. We are not idle hero-worshippers in paying tribute to the Liberty Bell. We but contemplate anew a lesson that needs to be emphasized over and over again for we can not instill too deeply in our own minds and the minds of our children the story of how we came to be free.

This will be the only opportunity the majority of the people of this section will ever have to see this cherished emblem of our national liberty. Old and young alike should see it and with a reverence, yet a spirit of happiness, due the things for which the famous relic stands.

THE INTERNAL POSITION IN RUSSIA.

Discussing the exceedingly interesting internal situation that is developing in Russia the Christian Science Monitor says:

"That an internal struggle, much greater than appears on the surface, is in progress in Russia has been abundantly clear for some time to those who have followed developments in that country with care, and were in a position to grasp the significance of apparently trivial happenings. The line of cleavage between the opposing parties, however, is daily becoming more clearly defined. The party of reaction, hard pressed by growing liberalism, is becoming more defiant in action and speech, and the whole great question, which for decades past has been fought out underground, as it were, is being forced to the surface.

"Recent dispatches from Petrograd on the matter speak plainly enough. They declare that, not only have the government's promises in regard to more liberal treatment of the Jews and of a more liberal policy in many other directions, not been kept, but that many political leaders, and others who advocated such reforms, have been arrested. They insist, however, that, when the history of the period comes to be written, it will be discovered that the darkest period was the one that began with the prorogation of the Duma, contrary to the will of the people, and ended with the reassembling of that body. The history of the whole incident and all that is bound up with it is instructive. It throws a strong light on the probable cause of the government's failure up to the present to carry out its promised reforms. It is, of course, certain, as was said at the time, that the importance of the closing of the Duma, was greatly exaggerated, but that it was part of the work of the reactionary party, cannot be doubted. The almost immediate victory obtained by the liberal party in securing the reassembling of the Duma several weeks earlier than had been originally intended, showed, as nothing else could, how close was becoming the struggle between the two forces. Foiled in this direction the party of reaction would seem to be now devoting itself to something in the nature of a press campaign, and to be carrying through its project with vigor. There is need here of plain speaking. It is a simple matter of history, as well as of fact, that the bureaucratic party in Russia has never been distinguished for its nationalism. There was a time, and not very long ago, when the ability to speak Russian fluently was regarded as a bar to advancement in the state service, and when the whole policy of the country was largely shaped along lines entirely antagonistic to the development of a spirit distinctively Russian.

"Now, this state of things has been subject, for several years past, to a steady process of undermining, and this process has been carried on, ever since the outbreak of the war nearly sixteen months ago, at a rate and with an openness never before equaled. Reaction may well be said to be fighting in its last ditch. It consequently becomes more violent and more incoherent. Let the political strikers be shot at once. Let the Zemstvos be deported for life to Siberia. Let the Duma, responsible as it is for all Russia's misfortunes, be suppressed by imperial ukase for all time. Thus the papers of the extreme right. Amongst these the most bitter are, perhaps, the Moskoskiya Viedmostie and the notorious Russkole Znamia. With them invective rises to a shriek. The Duma, the former declares, is driving the people into the byways of political dissension. The work of destruction in the interior has already begun, and is conceived in the interest of the 'downfall of our government and the triumph of our enemies.' Whilst the latter clamors for it that the Duma must go, and declares that the bare existence of such an institution denotes a 'degeneracy' and a continual menace to the Tsar and his imperial government! So much for the one side. On the other, the Liberal press does not forget the proved treachery of Lieutenant-Colonel Massoyedoff, and while insisting that such a class of men is small, maintains that it is, however, just the existence of this class of men which renders possible the existence of the Russkole Znamia and a few other similar journals under the patronage of M. Markov and the 'Black Bands.'

"In ordinary circumstances, this railing of one newspaper at another would have no claim on attention, but the present circumstances are not ordinary. On all previous occasions the party of reaction could in the last resort depend upon the government ranging itself in its support. The government might tolerate liberalism up to a certain point, but the extreme right always knew that, through the devious channel provided by the secret police and in many other ways, they held the power to force the government into line with their views, no matter how unwilling it might be. The war has changed all this. It has already swept away limitless tracts of the bureaucratic government which formerly blocked every path to freedom, and the many staffs upon which bureaucracy leaned are proving themselves broken reeds. It would, of course, be far too early to proclaim that the end is in view, but it can hardly be questioned that we are witnessing at any rate the beginning of it."

That Missouri freshman who lost his foot when he boarded a moving train as a part of his initiation into a college fraternity will hardly be so fresh in the future.

The Krupps, famous gun and munitions manufacturers of Germany, have given 20,000,000 marks for the establishment of a relief fund for the families of slain soldiers. They can well afford to be generous and patriotic, too, when it is considered what large things the government has done for them.

THE BETTER BABIES.

Our congratulations to the prize-winners in the Better Babies contest at the Cotton Palace, and greetings to the hundreds of other little folks who made creditable grades but for whom the prizes were not sufficiently numerous to reach. For it is generally known that these prizes were not awarded upon the strength of pretty faces and cute clothes but upon physical, mental and spiritual excellence if we may interpret a good disposition as a spiritual trait.

The value of the Better Babies contest lies in the fact that it demonstrated to parents the importance of seeing that their children have that most important of all rights—that of being well born—and after that, the next most important one being well reared. Fathers and mothers who entered their young children in the contest were made to realize that it is highly important that a child come into the world with a sound mind and a sound body, and while this might have been realized by the average parent as a general proposition heretofore, the importance of it had not been driven home to fathers and mothers in so forcible a manner before. Selfish indulgence in many forms on the part of mothers and fathers, too, is very common, and there are many mothers who have, by reason of overwork, poor nourishment, undue worry, and many other causes, permitted themselves to get into a physical and mental state, both before and after the arrival of the baby, that is highly injurious to their offspring.

Physicians who examined the babies pointed out the various defects, where such were found, to the parents and advised how, by prompt effort and care in the future, these could be overcome. So it is to the future rather than the present that we are to look for the largest returns from the Better Babies Show. Better babies now, mean better parents after awhile and the improvement in the breeding of the human race might be reasonably expected to bring about as large improvement in the human family within a few generations as our horse, cattle, sheep and hog raisers have produced in the character of our livestock. And no one will deny—though we have been a long time in learning it—that a baby is of infinitely more importance than a colt, a calf, a sheep or a pig.

Next year the Cotton Palace will offer a prize to those babies entered in this year's contest who show the most improvement over their record of this year and here's hoping that that portion of next year's contest will be more spirited than the initial entries. In putting on a Better Babies show the Cotton Palace directorate did a good thing and they and Miss Roberta Wright and her committee, assisted by the physicians and dentists, conducted it in a very acceptable and profitable manner.

An oil mill over at Comanche has begun the manufacture of peanut oil. Those who have tested this oil declare that it has finer food qualities than olive oil and is decidedly cheaper and more palatable.

Senator R. L. Warren of Kaufman county is the latest candidate to be pitted against Governor Ferguson for re-election by the newspaper correspondents. We have not heard from Senator Warren on the matter yet.

"Taft is not candidate; boosts Root's boom," advises a dispatch from Chicago. We venture that the Root boom will need some boosting from the leaders and a great deal of nursing by the rank and file before it develops into anything looking like a landslide.

News stories from Albany, Cuero, Waxahachie and various other points tell of increased turkey crops in those sections and fancy prices are the rule. So those persons who sell turkeys this year as well as those who eat them will have occasion for giving thanks next Thursday.

There is no end to opportunity in these United States. J. Leonard Replogle, who began his career at 11 years of age as an office boy on less than $5 a week, has outbid the president of the Cambria Steel company for a block of stock in that concern valued at $15,000,000, and he is just 33 years old now.

The spirit of preparedness appears to be spreading. Representative Mondell of Travis county and Representative Laney of Dallas county have announced themselves as candidates for speaker of the house when that election will not occur for fourteen months yet. The former is an anti and the latter a pro.

Men who gather for the annual stag party at Temple on Thanksgiving night will offer a silent prayer that peace may be restored in Europe and Asia. This is all well and good, but they might also pray that peace and good will may be restored in Bell county. And in the latter event they could help Providence answer their prayers.

SIX SPECIAL TRAINS TO TEXAS A. & M. GAME

ATTENDANCE OF AT LEAST 7,000 EXPECTED FOR CONTEST AT COLLEGE STATION.

Aggie Captain Says Men Are in Good Shape and Will Put Up Hard Fight.

Special to The Morning News.

College Station, Nov. 16.—Six special trains will be operated by the railroads to handle the crowds that will come to College Station Friday to witness the football game between the Aggies and the University of Texas.

The H. & T. C. will operate specials from Houston, Dallas and Austin, and the I. & G. N. will run special excursion trains from Austin, Houston and Waco.

The football game will be called at 2:30 o'clock and the special trains will arrive before noon. Here is the schedule of specials:

H. & T. C.

Leave Houston 10 a. m., arriving at College Station at 12:40 p. m. Returning to Houston, leave College Station 6:20 p. m., arriving Houston 9:10 p. m.

Leave Dallas 8 a. m., arriving College Station 1:30 p. m., leave College Station 6 p. m., arrive Dallas 11:30.

Leave Austin 8 a. m., coming via Hearne, short route, arriving at College Station at noon. Leave College Station 7 p. m.

I. & G. N.

Leave Austin 8 a. m., arriving College Station 11:30. Returning to suit convenience of passengers.

Leave Waco at 8:30 a. m., arriving at College Station at 12:30, returning to reach Waco at 8:20 p. m.

Leave Houston at 9 a. m., arriving College Station 1 noon.

Expect Big Attendance.

An attendance of 7000 persons is expected for this football game, the biggest to be played on a Texas college campus since the standpoint of interest. The game will be staged in the newly completed bowl at Kyle field, which has a seating capacity of 6000. This is the first time in the history of athletic relations of the University of Texas and the A. & M. college that a University-A. & M. football game has been scheduled for Kyle field. In the future the games will alternate. One year play will be called at Austin on Clark field and the next year at Kyle field at College Station.

At first it was feared that the loss of the game with Rice institute would cut down the attendance on the part of A. & M. friends and alumni. It now appears that loss may even increase the attendance. Followers of the game at College Station know that the humiliation of defeat at the hands of the plucky Rice eleven has served to better the Aggie team wonderfully. Since that game they have practiced with a determination and fierceness that has not been shown on an Aggie field this season save when they narrowly escaped defeat at the hands of the T. C. U. eleven in Fort Worth.

"We have had the best week of training since the Rice game, and we have had during the entire season," said Captain Johnnie Garrity today in speaking of the coming contest. "Of course we know that when we meet Texas we are up against a veteran combination and a team that has hit a winning stride. We have a world of good material on our organization, however. Harlan has given us some plays that are bound to give the men are working with a vim and determination that means a fight from the beginning to the end next Friday. We've more call to win from Texas than Yale had to beat Princeton and a far better chance of defeating them than Rice had of whipping us."

Men in Fair Shape.

All of the Aggie men are in fair shape and barring accidents during the next few days should go into Friday's contest in a fit condition. Harlan believes in working his men and stiff scrimmages will be the order of the day clear up until Thursday. "If they cannot stand hard work up until the game, how are they going to stand it during the game?" it is a bit of philosophy he holds true.

Fat cars fitted with lunch counters and coffee urns will be put on the sidings at College Station and dining cars will be set out there, also. The students will surrender the Shiba mess hall to the visitors and meals will be served there to 2500 visitors.

Idea weather for football has been given for the last few days by the weather man and all indications point to a continuation of that sort of weather for the Friday game. Clear and cool, with a fast field as a result of the recent rains, will make the day at Kyle field as fine as could be wished.

THE Spirit of Music is to be found at the Adams & Allcorn Kimball Display at the Cotton Palace.

The Kimball Piano represents such a high standard that its name alone is sufficient guarantee of its excellence. In these days of absurd and reckless use of adjectives in describing anything that resembles a Piano, it is refreshing to be led up to a Kimball and permit this intensely real piano to sell itself.

The Kimball Piano is only sold in stores of unquestioned business integrity, and they are never found in bargain lots or among "sales." Waco has been so often confused by piano advertising that education on the subject is timely, and such pianos as the Kimball furnish the education with an emphasis that is valuable to all who seek it. Piano values are not part of a salesman's argument; the instrument itself must show the value, and with a little education on the subject no kind of bait will attract you away from the real value in the piano.

We have on exhibition in the Main Building at the Cotton Palace a fine lot of these artistic pianos in both Grands and Uprights.

Our Sheet Music department is now complete. All latest hits will be found at our booth, or at store.

Special to The Morning News.

Marlin, Nov. 16.—Captain Jameson of the Marlin Light Guards is preparing to take the company to Waco Wednesday afternoon, when they will take advantage of an invitation tendered the company by Captain Torrence of the Waco militia, to join in the reception of the Liberty Bell when it reaches Waco Wednesday night at 9:30. THEATRES

AUDITORIUM.

"September Morn."

"September Morn," to be disclosed next Saturday, matinee and night, at the Auditorium, comes to us from the LaSalle opera house, Chicago, where its phenomenal success and run —extending through 256 consecutive performances—is still the talk of the windy city, is pronounced by those who have to do with the theatre, the season's one "positive hit." It is of the type heretofore presented by "The Modern Eve" and others in the series produced at the pretty Chicago home of musical comedy.

There is much solid amusement in the new comedy. In places it is credited with being a trifle frolicsome, but having been subjected to a long Chicago run, it is never naughty. One may recommend it unqualifiedly to all who like to laugh heartily without being ashamed of their laughter.

The plot of "September Morn" has to do with two claimants. One to the honor of having painted the celebrated picture of September Morn, and the other of having been the poseuse.
Beside those who figure in the wisp of a story—the company includes a wonderful dancer in Miss Vernice Martyn, who plays here the principal female role—that of Argentina, the false claimant of poseuse for the painting. Miss Martyn, like John Sawyer, present pet of New York society, is a remarkable tango dancing expert.

The book and lyrics are by Arthur Gillespie, with music by Aubrey Stauffer, a new and brilliant composer of comic opera and musical comedy melody. The production was staged by Frank Tammahill, Jr., and the corps
d' ballet, rehearsed by Virgil Bennett, veteran maitre d' ballet. The organi-able, it is not impossible, and certainly has been practiced many, many times in the old days by our primitive ancestors. The idea of kidnapping a wife and compelling her admiration and love after marriage may not appeal to many young men of modern times as the best method of settling the affairs of the heart, but Chuck Hemmingway (Dustin Farnum) is not an ordinary young man and does not make his methods and ideas those of modern society. Living in the open, free country of Alaska, the great north that "tries men's souls," Chuck sees in beautiful Octavia Van Ness, a young girl from the ultra society set of San Francisco, the woman he wishes and determines to have her Octavia is visiting the north with her grandfather and her disgust at the "barbarians" is indescribable. Chuck, whom her grandfather calls a real man, is characterized by her as an ox. Chuck, however, makes violent love to her and disregards her indication and her repulses with great good humor. When he learns that she is to leave the north, he seeks the advice of his old Indian friend, Joe.

Joe assures him that his people, when they wanted a certain woman, made no bones about "carrying squaw off."

And so Chuck kidnaps his maid.

The various played in every Chuck tries to bring about a reconciliation with his wife after he has carried her to old Indian Joe's cabin, and the help that old Mamma Eagle Eye gives, affords an amusing and pathetic touchstone. Enid Markey as Octavia excels in her interpretation of the young wife's emotions and the gradual change in her attitude toward her powerful husband.
A mention of the cast would not be complete without the baby, and well-known Louise Glauum is fascinating as the dance hall queen. "The Iron Strain" given with the comedy, "A Game Old Knight," will be here today only.

Forbes-Robertson's Farewell.

Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson, the greatest English-speaking actor of his generation, will commence the third and last lap of his farewell American tour at Richmond, Va., on October 11.
It was in September, 1912, that Forbes-Robertson began his farewell tour of the world at Nottingham, England.

The season of 1912-13 was spent in England where he made his last appearance in the principal English cities. He began his farewell London engagement at Drury Lane Theatre Royal on March 22, 1913, making his final appearance on the London stage on June 6 in "Hamlet." In October he began his last engagement in New York City, which lasted 17 weeks and was followed by his tour of the principal eastern cities. Last season he visited the larger cities throughout the west, middle-west and Canada. He returns to this country next fall to appear in those cities he was not able to include on his previous tour.

Though his farewell tour has required three years to complete, it is a genuine farewell and under no circumstances will he ever appear again in any city he has said farewell to.

"Hamlet," in which Sir Johnston is recognized as the greatest interpreter of the title role of this generation, will be in his repertoire, but owing to the great strain which this role makes upon the actor, it will not be played more than twice a week. "The Light That Failed," a dramatization of Rudyard Kipling's novel of the same title, is the second play in his repertoire and will be a novelty to theatregoers throughout the country as Forbes-Robertson is the only actor who has ever played it. "Passing of the Third Floor Back," in which Forbes-Robertson has achieved one of his greatest and most popular successes, completes his repertoire, these being the three plays that he presented in this country last year.

Forbes-Robertson's supporting company will be practically the same as last season and will with the production will be brought over from England next fall.

"The Song of Hate."

Mario de Campo, a romantic young artist, (played by Fritz de Lind) meets Flora Tosca (Betty Nansen) in a dreamy, old-world town, where "it is always afternoon." La Tosca is a celebrated opera singer. She is admired by Baron Scarpia, perfect of police, who becomes furiously jealous of Mario's attentions to the stage idol.
Scarpia determines, with the power that is invested in him, by virtue of his office, to wreck vengeance upon Mario. Steven Andrass, Mario's best friend, is the traitor which Scarpia elects to use to attain his ends. Andrass is arrested as a spy and sentenced to the dungeons of St. Angelo, and ordered to be shot. Andrass is a brother of Countess Fodor, who is a warm personal friend of La Tosca.
The baroness bribes Andrass's jailer, and he escapes. Scarpia seizes his halled as a masterpiece of description.

The play was declared to be a triumph in the art of presenting desert atmosphere on the stage. When this leading film company decided to make "Bella Donna," its contribution to the Paramount Program, Edwin S. Porter and Hugh Ford, who were selected to supervise its production, realized at once that they faced the difficult task of competing with the realistic descriptions of a master painter of word pictures and of eclipsing the realism of the stage presentation of the play. They therefore decided to take the entire company, which in addition to Miss Frederick included Julian L'Estrange and Thomas Holding, who also appeared in "Zaza" with the same star, to the sand-grained waterways of Florida which, with their tropical vegetation, formed the most perfect substitutes for the far-famed country bordering the Nile.

This great dramatic feature is one of the films which escaped destruction when the studios of the Famous Players were recently swept away by fire. It was a curious coincidence that the players should have returned from Florida only two days before the disaster, and it was only by the greatest good fortune that fruits of their labors were saved from the flames.

"Bella Donna" is the tale of an ad-venturess who poisons her English husband in order to be free to go to an Egyptian with whom she has fallen in love. But before the poison can accomplish its deadly work, a doctor discovers what is being done and he saves the intended victim. Her plot frustrated, Bella Donna reviles her husband and gives herself up to her lover. But the Egyptian casts her off and when she returns humbly to her home, she finds the doors shut in her face by the doctor. Alone in the world, she passes out into the black night across the grim desert into the great unknown.

Owing to the fact that it was unlawful for a person to have gambling paraphernalia in their possession, the Jesse L. Lasky company experienced a great deal of difficulty in securing mous American star and international beauty, who will make her photo-opportunity. Mario is arrested for the act in of Andrass.

His capture has been brought about through the jealousy of Flora La Tosca for the Countess. Scarpia, who stops at nothing, when he has an end to attain, straps Mario to a chair of torments, and an iron band eats its way into the artist's forehead. Scar-pia, with a cruel smile on his lips, sends for La Tosca. She realizes now that her heart and soul are bound in Mario's keeping. Scarpia names his price for Mario's life. It is the honor of La Tosca. But her great love knows no price too great to pay for the safety of Mario. She consents to meet Scarpia's demand. She meets him in a private room in a fashionable restaurant; but the last moment, as Scarpia's greedy hands touch her,
and his hot breath pollutes her lips,
she shrinks from his Satyr-like embraces, and leaning back in a last desperate moment, clutches a knife from the dinner table. Again and again she plunges it deep into Scar-pia's heart. As he falls back, with his fatal eyes glazed in the grip of death, the fearful realization of what she has done suddenly overwhelms La Tosca. But her sacrifice has been made. Black-hearted to the last, Scarpia has played the traitor even with his debased bargain. La Tosca's realization of the way in which she has been tricked and the consequences which ensue from her maddened grief leads "The Song of Hate" to a terrific climax, in which Miss Nansen's superb art and wonderful command of dramatic emotion are seen at heights to which this greatest of all dramatic artists has never before attained.

"The Song of Hate."

The attraction at the Rex Friday and Saturday will be a spectacular and faithful adaptation of the celebrated novel and play, "Bella Donna," by Robert Hichens and J. B. Fagan, which has been adapted by the Famous Players Film company with Pauline Frederick in the title role.

As a "best seller" the novel created a stir a few years ago and was the basis of the play "Bella Donna," in which Alla Nazimova, the distinguished Russian actress, won her first American triumph, and an even greater success than she won in the Ibsen roles which made her famous. By her wonderful work in "Zaza," Miss Frederick, who interprets the same role which the Russian actress played, has more than prepared her friends for a superb performance. Hers is the powerful personal magnetism which depends upon more than mere beauty for its charm; it is a fascinating, indescribable something that is as elusive as it is effective.

Beatriz Michelena in "Salvation Nell."

Today and Tomorrow.

The photoplay, "Salvation Nell," is based on Edward Sheldon's successful drama of the same name and clearly traces its source of inspiration to "All Sorts and Conditions of Men," written by the late Walter Besant on the topic of early days of the Salvation Army in London, which was founded in the '60's by the late "General" Booth.

Booth set out to rescue the submerged tenth in London's vast east end—cesspool of crime, poverty, disease, all mostly caused by drink.
"Salvation Nell," the modern play, illustrates conditions in New York which Booth saw and started to grapple with long before Mr. Sheldon produced his play. Still every credit is due Mr. Sheldon. For long Salvation-ism was derided at. Its professors were cuffed and stoned. The older religionaries hated it. That's what they all do when anything new and progressive comes along. Don't blame them; it's human nature.

Beatriz Michelena has the part of her life in that of the adventurous Nell, who after all her vicious troubles and lurid vicissitudes, is redeemed by the Army. The photoplay makes a wide appeal and is very well and carefully produced with a strong supporting cast.

Races Start This Afternoon at 2 O'Clock

BEST PROGRAM GIVEN YET AT COTTON PALACE RACES

Every Number Proves a Feature, With the 2:14 Pace Most Evenly Matched Contest of Meet to Date—Garity, May Harriman, Wiseland and Doctor Mack Jr., Winners.

CLOSE FINISHES IN ALL HEATS OF 2.24 TROT

Fred Drew Fails to Deliver in Seven-eighths Running Race, Being Unable to Maintain Early Lead—Wiseland and Bert L. of Ammerman Entry Finish First and Second, With Igloo Third.

Crisp air and a good springy track seemed to put added zest into the races at Cotton Palace park yesterday afternoon and the grandstand was on its feet most of the time, so tense was the excitement. Each race was a feature event, the 2:14 pace for a purse of $200 probably being the most evenly matched.

A new track record will probably be set today, as the free for all pace is scheduled to be pulled off. Several mares eligible for this event have gone the mile under 2:10 and many of the horsemen have been holding back for this race. In fact, everything is primed for some fine racing this afternoon and a large attendance is expected.

Garity and May Harriman were winners in the harness numbers yesterday and Doctor Mac, Jr., and Wiseland in the running races. As an example of how fast the track was the five-eighths running race was negotiated in 1:04, a second faster than the previous record.

Seldom if ever has a race on the local track been so hotly contested than the first event, the 2:14 pace. Hallie Grace took the lead early in the opening heat, led past the judges' stand the first time around and lasted long enough to push under the wire a winner, Garity on her flanks with Togo Prince, Prince Fisher and Col. Rodgers all fighting hard for third. There was hardly a sulky's distance between the five horses as they swept under the wire. The time for this heat was 2:17½.

The principal difference between the first and the second heat was that Garity took the lead at the start and held it all the way, to all practical intents, several of the other horses forging ahead for a few steps but not being able to keep there. Garity outsummed them all and flashed over the line in front, the time being 2:16, the best of the day. As in the first heat, all five horses were bunched coming down the stretch, Togo Prince finishing second.

Every horse in the race was ahead at some time or other in the deciding heat and the spectators were treated to as thrilling an exposition of the sport of kings as could reasonably be desired. Col. Rodgers was a little ahead at the start with Hallie Grace trailing the bunch. J. Humphries, driving Hallie Grace, nodded to the judges that the start was satisfactory to him and went around the entire field in the back stretch, passing Togo Prince, then in the lead, after a hard struggle.

But the early pace was more than the game little animal could stand and Prince Fisher passed her at the entrance to the stretch and Garity as they came flying past the grandstand. Prince Fisher barely won, Garity being second and Hallie Grace third. The time was 2:15½.

The 2:24 trot developed into a two-horse event, Jim Cobb not being able to move with the leaders, May Harriman and H. Curtiss, and Governor V.'s chances for winning being spoiled by his breaking in each heat, the day evidently putting entirely too much "pep" into the Governor.

Jim Cobb did his best in the first heat, leading clear around and into the back stretch, where both May Harriman and M. Curtiss passed him. Curtiss and there were no complaints in his grasp, but broke and the brave little mare sped across the line to victory, the time being 2:26½.

If it had been left to the grandstand, the second heat would have been called a dead heat, it being so close between H. Curtiss and May Harriman. The mare almost caught up with H. Curtiss at the far end of the grandstand and both were expected to their utmost at the finish. The judges decided in favor of H. Curtiss and there were no complaints or protests, but—it was awful close.

May Harriman won the third heat by a wider margin than was secured by the winner in either of the others. That does not mean that she did not travel as fast, for the time was the same as in the second heat, 2:24½. After breaking and falling away behind, Governor V. trotted a sensational race, forcing Jim Cobb to be content with fourth position.

By the time they passed the judges' stand the horses in the five-eighths running race had assumed the positions which they kept throughout. Doctor Mack, Jr., was about a length in front, then came Our Leader, then Judge Snook, Palatable and Ed Flowers in the order named. Very little was gained in the stretch and there was no trouble in telling who won.

Fred Drew took the early lead in the seven-eighths running race, the last event of the day, but could not maintain it. Pedro then forged ahead, only to drop back, Wiseland finally winning, with Bert L., the other Am-erman entry, second, and Igloo third.

While the horses were jockeying for their start in the last race, Aviator Williams made his flight and circled the race track. Considerable difficulty was experienced in getting the horses off, Fred Drew continually breaking the barrier. But when the race did come off it sure was a thriller.

A glance over the entries will show that today's racing will be the classiest of the meet to date. There are two $400 purses, with fast animals entered for the harness events and a good array of nags for the half and three-fourths mile running races.

MOST ROADS VIOLATE LAW IS DECLARED

STARTLING STATEMENTS CONTAINED IN LETTER OF MELLER TO WM. LOEB, JR.

IS USED IN NEW HAVEN TRIAL

New Light Thrown on Famous Interview of Mellen With President Roosevelt.

By The Associated Press.

New York, Nov. 16.—New light on Charles S. Mellen's famous interview with President Roosevelt over the question as to whether the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company should sell its steamship lines to Charles W. Morse was switched on by the government attorneys today at the trial of the eleven former directors of the road on the charge of criminal violation of the Sherman law. The government introduced a letter written by Mellen to William Loeb, Jr., the president's secretary, by which it appeared there was a subsequent misunderstanding between the railroad president and Mr. Roosevelt over what had been said at the interview. According to Mellen's testimony the president told him he would give the New Haven no immunity if it violated the law but he promised there would be no action taken against the road during his administration if it should resign its steamship lines.

The government maintains that the New Haven not only retained the lines but proceeded to acquire others to strengthen its alleged monopoly.

"Please do not forget," Mellen wrote in the letter introduced today, "the promise you made that the president should send for Herbert Knapp Smith and read over carefully the memorandum he prepared of our interview of early last spring on the steamship matter."

Further Requisitions.

"Unless my memory is faulty, I outlined to the president in that interview that if I did not trade with Mr. Morse it would be necessary for me to go further for the protection of the territory we serve and I have it strongly in my mind that I suggested there would be further acquisitions. I have no recollection as to whether I said so or not, but I am sure that it is so, but inasmuch as we have come to a better understanding than for a long time back and as I am very pleased with the result of my last interview with him, I am more anxious that he should disabuse his mind of the thought I fear he may have had that I have taken advantage of his good nature and kindness toward me. I am further than I was justified in doing as the result of our interview."

"Such an impression on his part I should deplore very much and it disturbs me very seriously." The letter was dated January 27, 1908, nearly a year after the interview referred to, and meantime the New Haven had bought the Windsor line and obtained an interest in the Merchants and Miners. The occasion for sending the communication was a proposed interview with the president by a committee of railroad presidents which Mr. Mellen desired to arrange to discuss the Sherman law.

Most Railroads Liable. "I have called a meeting of the railroad presidents in New York tomorrow," Mr. Mellen wrote in the introductory part of the letter, "regarding the matter I spoke to the president about, viz: That of having a conference with him by which the railroad can become more tractable through a better understanding of his policy regarding them."

"There is hardly any railroad corporation in the country but is liable to attack under some section of the Sherman law and that is such a menace that if it is possible, it is most desirable that the president's great influence shall be exerted to bring about some amendment of its provisions that will insure a reasonable degree of safety for the past, even if the provisions contained therein shall obtain for the future, and regarding this, if I understand correctly from various interviews I had with the president, he is not at all averse, on the contrary is disposed to help to the extent he can."

Sought Better Understanding. "It is my firm conviction if a better understanding can be had with a president and of his policy it will go a long way toward ameliorating conditions in financial circles and bring about the support of the president in those quarters I so earnestly seek and which I believe is absolutely necessary to the successful outcome of his wishes regarding the coming political campaign."

One paragraph of the letter was not read. Attorney Batts omitted after the defense protested the letter was "purely a political matter."

The letter was introduced during evidence relating to the New Haven's trolley acquisitions and Mr. Mellen, who was on the stand, was not questioned about it.

On the subject of trolleys the government brought out that a word from the late J. P. Morgan to Robert Windsor, a Boston banker, had been sufficient to prevent the construction of a proposed electric line from Boston to Providence paralleling the New Haven.

Evidence of an intention to oppose the admission of the most important chapters of the government case on the ground that it was not amenable to the Sherman law was given today by the defense. The chapter consists of deals for the acquisition of the New York, Westchester and Boston roads, and extends in the statute of limitations periods. It was briefly touched on today and the defense made the objection that the roads were intrastate and not interstate lines. Judge Hunt withheld decision.

Subnormal Infant Gets Death Sentence, Mother Consenting

By The Associated Press.

Chicago, Nov. 16.—A ballot to determine whether to attempt to save the life of a deformed subnormal infant or whether by inertia to let the child die, resulted in a death sentence for the little one today.

The infant's mother, told that an operation might save the child's life, although no known human intelligence could promise any mental development for the babe wept and agreed to abide by the judgment of the physician. A score of hospital nurses consulted, one alone voted for the life of the child. Dr. H. J. Hazeldin took the responsibility, casting the deciding vote, and did not perform the operation. The child was still alive tonight but authorities at the hospital said it would probably not live through another 24 hours.

"It is a question of ethics," said Dr. Hazeldin, "while we all know physicians do not allow monstrosities to live, the line must be drawn somewhere. I have drawn the line in this case."

"The child could have been saved as one more idiotic defective. Defectives are prolific. It would produce its kind and these initial deformities would have become magnified and multiplied."

Fort Worth, Nov. 16.—Oklahoma A. & M. football team defeated Texas Christian University here today 13 to 0. Straight football gave the Oklahomans the victory. T. C. U. used the forward pass for good gains, but were unable to penetrate the visitors' line. Oklahoma failed to complete a pass.

The combination of Walters, Campbell, Aycock and Kenney made first downs for the Oklahomans repeatedly. For T. C. U., Cox, Ramsey, Nelson, Edens and Vaughn were the most dependable ground gainers. Several times the Aggies' goal was threatened but forward passes across the goal line that failed of success spoiled T. C. U. chances.

Chief Mahseet, the Indian punter, averaged 55 yards on his punts, and it was through his kicking them out that the Sooner squad managed to keep the ball in the Christians' territory through most of the game. Kinney bucked over for the first touchdown in the second quarter and the same player crossed in the third, using the tackle crowd play in both instances. In the first period the Christians outplayed their rivals.

quarters. In fact, it was reported last night that the reinforced Scrubs piled up a fat score against the first-string men.

However, the team is in excellent shape for the game Thursday and will play hard to win. It is thought that if Waco HI can take this game it will be accredited with at least a tie with Austin for state championship honors. Some even contend that the local boys have the edge on the Senators when figured on comparative scores—provided always they win this last game of the season.

North Fort Worth is considered probably the strongest team in North Texas, although the situation in that section is in a worse mixup than the Central Texas championship.

At any odds, Waco will put forth her best efforts tomorrow and the game should be a spectacular one.

A fire brigade extinguished the flames.

NEUTRALITY LAWS WILL BE REVISED

ATTORNEY GENERAL TO ASK FOR CHANGE IN SHERMAN ACT TO APPLY TO WAR PLOTS.

TO ENGAGE SECRET SERVICE

Government Desires Revisions in Order to Cope With Present Situation.

Washington, Nov. 16.—Revision of the federal neutrality laws so the department of justice can deal with offenses difficult if not impossible to reach under existing statutes, is one of the tasks congress will be asked to undertake at the coming session.

This was one of the subjects discussed today at the cabinet meeting and Attorney General Gregory afterward said his department would ask for a change in the Sherman anti-trust act so there would be no question of its application to conspiracies such as are believed to have been responsible for recent strikes in munitions plants, attempts to blow up ships sailing from American ports and other activities having for their object interference with interstate and foreign commerce.

Prosecutions for conspiracies of this sort cannot be undertaken in state courts under the Sherman act and if officials of any other government were involved the offense would be against the United States and could be prosecuted only in the federal courts.

Amendment of the Sherman act, however, probably will not be the only legislation of that character sought from congress. Developments of the last six months have convinced officials that there is a need for specific neutrality statutes, for many alleged crimes have gone unpunished after much time and money had been spent in investigations, because government lawyers felt that convictions could not be secured.

About the only statutes now in the criminal code that have been invoked successfully are those aimed at the transportation of explosives unmarked in interstate commerce and the law against enlistment in the United States for foreign service. Government authorities will be freely consulted by the attorney general regarding what sort of legislation is needed and it is possible an effort will be made to conform the law of the United States relating to neutrality violations to espionage and kindred matters.

Although no detailed program has been decided upon, an attempt may be made to enlarge the powers of the secret service so it may be able to cope with conditions such as now exist here as a result of the European war and the interests of belligerent governments in this country. Under the present law the secret service cannot use its regular men in any work except detection of counterfeits and protection of the president. Although Chief Flynn is said to be employing more than fifty men in war plot investigations they all really are employees of the state department, acting under Flynn's direction. While the bureau of investigation of the department of justice is not so hampered, having a fund of nearly a half million at its disposal, its activities in other lines are so numerous that its regular force cannot be used exclusively on the task of ferreting out war plotters.

How an attempt to consolidate the services or to enlarge the powers of the secret service would be regarded by congress only a few years ago took some of the broad powers away from the secret service after a disagreement with President Roosevelt. The extraordinary conditions now existing, however, are counted upon to bring sufficient support to any changes the administration may determine upon.

Artillery Actions in West. By The Associated Press. Paris, Nov. 16.—The following official communication was issued by the war office tonight:

"The day was characterized only by artillery actions, which were especially intense in Champagne, in the Argonne, in the Woivre, in the forest of Apremont and in Alsace, in the region of Ammetzwiler."

The Belgian official communication says: "The night of November 15-16 was quieter. Today a somewhat violent bombardment of our advanced position and a number of points on our front to the north of Dixmude took place. Some projectiles were thrown on our lines to the south of that locality as well as against Saint Jacques Capelle and Oude Cappelle. Our artillery replied vigorously to the German batteries, commencing the enemy trenches and dispersing military pioneers before several points on the front."

"Army of the east. The Bulgarians renewed their violent attack on November 14 against our front on the left bank of the Cerna. They were everywhere repulsed with very heavy losses."

"Claim prevails on the whole front along the left bank of the Vardar. The debarkation of French and British troops at Salonika continues without incident."

Noted Soprano with Cavallo's Band at Cotton Palace

MISS EDNA BRADFORD.

It was a fortunate day for both Prof. P. A. Cavallo and Miss Edna Bradford when they were invited to attend the same Masonic reception in St. Louis, for it was there, he first heard her sing. He was so attracted by her voice that he sought an introduction, and learned that she was singing in the leading churches of that city. Realizing the possibilities of her voice, he advised her to study for the concert stage.

Her mother was greatly opposed to her adopting the stage as a profession, but Mr. Cavallo soon convinced her that there was a future for her daughter, and gained her consent. He then sent her East to a leading voice teacher, who was a personal friend of his. On her return her first appearance with his band was such a marked success that after repeating the cadenza of "Lo, Hear the Gentle Lark" several times, and responding to numerous other encores, Sig. Cavallo was surprised to refuse any further response.

Her ease and freedom from any mannerisms, coupled with her charming personality, never fails to reach her audiences. She has a host of friends in every city in which she has appeared.

The entire day was devoted to the reports of the resolutions committee and the executive council.

COAL DUST EXPLOSION TRAPS MANY MINERS

FOUR KNOWN DEAD AND TWENTY-SEVEN MISSING IN RAVENSDALE DISASTER.

Rescuing Parties Penetrate Third Level and Are Hard at Work.

By The Associated Press.

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 16.—Thirty-four men were trapped today in the Northwestern Improvement company's coal mine at Ravensdale, 35 miles southeast of Seattle, by an explosion of coal dust in the main slope. Early tonight four men had been removed by a rescue team sent by the United States Bureau of Mines from Seattle. Rescue parties are striving to reach the men still unaccounted for who are believed entombed in the third level. The ventilating system remained in working order and the first level was cleared of gas, but because of the debris, the lower levels could not be purified.

Four men have been taken from the second level in Ravensdale mine No. 1 float, one of them dead, it was learned by long distance telephone tonight. The dead man was Jack W. Errington. The others will survive. About thirty men are trapped on the third level. It was said at the mine that there was yet hope of saving them.

Two more men were added to the death list when rescuers tonight penetrated as far as the third level.

Sixty-One Passenger Trains Day's Record for Waco Tomorrow

Sixty-one passenger trains, or one for every 12 minutes during the 24 hours, will arrive and leave Waco tomorrow. Forty-two of the total will arrive and depart at the union station; nineteen at the M., K. & T. depot.

"So far as railroading is concerned, Thursday promises to be epochal in the number of passengers handled at the Waco stations," said C. D. Bowman, union depot ticket agent and recognized as one of the most thorough and competent and courteous in the entire country. "There is going to be a notable congestion of holiday folk in this vicinity for a couple of hours during the morning and for about the same period of time just before midnight. It would be difficult to estimate the number of people who will be handled at the union station, but it is safe to say the Cotton Belt paid admission totals is going to be boosted by numerous thousands."

In addition to the regular trains, the Cotton Belt will bring in three excursions loaded with Cotton Palace visitors. The Santa Fe, the I. & G., the S. A. & A. P., and the T. & P., each will run a special train. The M., K. & T. will run no special trains tomorrow. At 9:30 o'clock this morning, however, it will arrive with W. O. W. special. It is estimated that 400 people arrived in Waco on Cotton Belt train No. 1 yesterday morning. They were from Hubbard City, Tyler, Athens, Corsicana and other points from the east.

Stars Have Rival in Cotton Palace Aviator

The stars had a rival last night when O. E. Williams, the Cotton Palace aviator, soared into the darkened heaven with his machine illuminated with red and green lights. "That man is just naturally teasing death to see if he can't start something," said one of the thousands who witnessed the daring aviator at 9:30 last night, as the illuminated man-made bird swooped around in the inky heaven over the exposition grounds. But daring is not the only virtue of Mr. Williams—he is an artist as well.

There are a few other aviators of the country—one or two still living—who perform feats that Cotton Palace aviator does not do, but none make prettier starlight flights, in arising, angling and alighting, than does Mr. Williams. This aviator has made his own machine to suit his own personal whimsicalities, and he and his plane are like pals—they manipulate together.

Flights will be made for the remainder of the exposition at 4:30 o'clock each afternoon and at 9:30 at night. This schedule was definitely decided upon last night and will not be changed unless weather conditions make flight impractical.

ARTIST AT COTTON PALACE ONE BUSY PERSON THESE DAYS

One of the interesting personalities who is consecrated during these two weeks to pleasing visitors at the Cotton Palace and adding to the variety to this many-sided exposition, is Miss Margaret Greene, an artist, who has sketched everything at the exposition from a prize-winning dog to Jud Mortimer Lewis, which is some variety as newspaper men gauge things.

Editors, society leaders, prize-winning babies and premium marked dog-ings have served as models for Miss Greene's ready crayon during the Palace. She is connected for the present with the State Department of Agriculture, and her duties are those of a free lance artist and an illustrator of the lectures given by Mrs. J. L. Landrum on cookery and food values. Miss Greene is making her home at present in Dallas, coming to Texas from St. Louis, her former home. She has had work in the Cincinnati Art Academy, recognized portrait school of the country, under such teachers as Nowotny and L. H. Meakin, and in the St. Louis studio of John W. Vanderpool, a leader in artist figure work. In this academy she took one of five scholarships in which five hundred contested. Commercial work has carried Miss Greene to several of the large cities of the country. Recently she has turned out for a Texas publishing company over a hundred educational sketches for a series of drawings in school books.

Chief events at the Palace and prominent visitors have been sketched by this facile artist who turns out work with the most rapid of the cartoonists.

Texas is a little four-flushed along the portrait line, said Miss Greene in the course of an informal interview. "The people who desire portraits are inclined to think that they must import artists or go east for their work. I recall one very well known portrait painter who made his home in Dallas formerly and is now leaving because of this proclivity of the Texans." In spite of this, Miss Greene has been very well pleased with her commercial work in the state and will probably make her home in the state.

This Cotton Palace artist is particularly strong on drawing the public schools. "It is not that we wish to make artists out of every child, but we wish to make the keen appreciation of art a part of every public school child's education." There is no way to fully appreciate art in its beauty and difficulty of production like beginning as a child with drawing in the public school, declared Miss Greene.

Brazos Executive Board Will Meet in Houston Next Week

Except that a call for the executive committee of the Brazos River and Valley Improvement association to meet in Houston some time next week for the appointment of a permanent secretary has been issued, no definite action has been taken relative to the proposed meeting. It is probable the date will be fixed within the next few days.

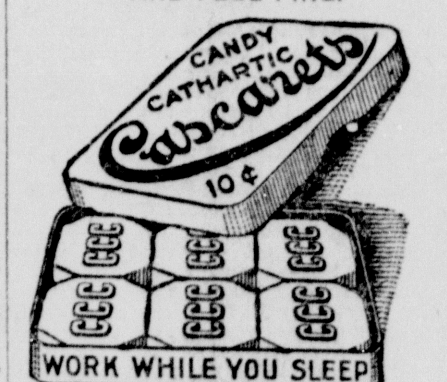

"Arrangements have not been perfected as yet, but will within a short time," said Col. W. W. Seley, president of the association, yesterday. "The session will be called for Houston for some day next week—perhaps the latter part of the week. At that time a permanent secretary will be elected. Work then will proceed under a more centralized and effective method. It will be reduced to a system and more prompt results will be assured."

Literature and copies of the constitution and by-laws as adopted at the Bryan meetings are being distributed. Progress in the organization of the thirteen counties bordering on the Brazos between Waco and Freeport is being made.

Dayton, Ohio, Nov. 16.—In the convention of salesmen of the National Cash Register company, gathered here from all parts of this continent, reports were made indicating the general improvement of business everywhere. Out of the eight hundred salesmen present, all but one said that his territory was moving fast toward a business boom.

On the basis of these reports, John H. Patterson, president and general manager of the Cash Register company, predicted that the approaching era of prosperity would probably exceed anything this country has ever known.

As a preface to his remarks, he reviewed the business depression of the previous two years. This, he said, had affected all lines—agriculture, mining, industry, commerce and finance.

"Now," he continued, "the boom is on. Agricultural interests are the first to feel it. The farmers have record-breaking crops, with a big demand. Confidence has been re-established. Various industries have picked up, one after another. Then the stores needed goods, the factory wheels began to move. Then commerce and transportation reflected the change. Finally, it was manifest in the financial world. We have plenty of money and the best banking system in the world today.

"We have three big federal organizations taking care of the various interests: First, the Interstate Commerce commission; then came the federal trade commission; and, finally, the federal reserve board, with its chain of reserve banks. The value of these three boards or commissions to the country cannot be estimated.

"Through the aid of the reserve banks, the various banking institutions of the country began to loan money where people could not get it before. Now, with big crops and big demands, with little foreign competition, we are at the commencement of an era of prosperity such as this country has never seen before.

"All this great prosperity cannot come in a day. It will take time. But conditions everywhere are improving. The farmers are prosperous. The mills of Pittsburgh are busier than ever before. Railroad stocks are going up. It is only a question of a short time before the wave of prosperity will be upon us.

"Now is the time for storekeepers to advertise," added Mr. Patterson. He is backing up his opinion with his money. His company is spending more than $200,000 this month for advertising. In addition, it has spent $50,000 to have the 500 members of its selling force attend its school at Dayton for three days, where they were taught the new and up-to-date ideas for their business.

NO SHORTAGE OF GEMS.

Imports of Them Increasing. This Being the Only Market.

That there will be no shortage in the stocks of diamonds and other precious stones for the holiday trade on account of the war is the belief of customs officials here charged with the appraisal of the gems. Imports, which have been increasing for several months, took a big upward turn in October, according to a report filed yesterday by Examiner William B. Treadwell with Appraiser of the Port Sague.

All classes of precious stones, including pearls, entered at this port last month had a total value of $3,058,955, a gain of nearly $1,000,000 over September. The imports were returned at $2,192,252. In October, 1914, when transportation facilities and business generally in Europe were demoralized owing to hostilities, the entries were down to $494,162, while in October, 1915, the first month of the present tariff, gem imports aggregated $1,215,302. Phenomenal imports, however, were made in the months immediately preceding the enactment of the Underwood bill.

Last month's gem entries comprised cut stones worth at foreign market valuations $1,515,422; uncut stones appraised at $257,615; and miners' and dealers' diamonds valued at $109,915. According to reliable reports, the conditions brought about by the war are forcing private owners of valuable gems to dispose of their holdings to American importers, while the regular dealers abroad and the United States' sole outlet for such stocks as they possess. The existing situation was summed up by a Maiden Lane Importer yesterday when he said: "Americans will be practically the only people in the world this coming holiday season to indulge in the luxury of gem buying. With unimportant exceptions, all precious stones brought to this country are entered and appraised in the New York appraiser's office.—New York Times.

Cotton Palace Police Use Direct Methods to Obtain Direct Results

"The best policed exposition in the United States" has come to be the reputation of the Cotton Palace throughout the country, and this reputation is well supported by Assistant Chief Charles James and his Cotton Palace squad this year. The method of policing the exposition, which is to "get" the crooks before they start work, has proved very satisfactory in previous years, and this was the procedure carried out by city detectives this year. Incoming trains several days before the Cotton Palace opened were closely watched under orders of Chief McNamara, and suspicious characters were warned to leave the city at once. About 75 were kept moving in this manner.

The fundamental effectiveness of this plan has been responsible for the fewness of the trips made to the exposition grounds by the city patrol wagon. Only one pocket-picking or purse-snatching case has been reported to the Cotton Palace police. In this case it was not at all certain that the purse had been stolen, the possibility that it had simply been lost being evident, but the procedure of Assistant Chief James in the case is typical of the direct methods which have made the Cotton Palace an exposition almost entirely free from strong-arm crooks. A woman reported that she had lost her pocketbook while in one of the War Path amusement places. She was of the opinion that it had been stolen. Mr. James went to the proprietor of the place and warned him that if another such happening was reported from his place it would be closed up. The proprietor demurred that in the crowds it would be hard to keep crooks out. Mr. James advised him to place an extra man on the door to spot the crooks, as the order closing the place would be enforced should any other thefts occur. Something more than fifteen suspects have been arrested in the grounds and ordered out of the city by the Cotton Palace squad. In each case the supposed crooks were spotted before they had time to work.

BOILS AND PIMPLES DANGEROUS S. S. S. YOUR REMEDY

Standard for Fifty Years

Modern science has proven that boils and carbuncles, pimples and unsightly skin blotches, are the danger signals of diseased blood. Scaly skin and itching Eczema, Scrofula, rashes—all skin diseases are aggravated by bad blood—it's the infected blood that's dangerous. Don't wait for the boils. If you have pimples and blotches, take instant action. Pimples tell you that your blood is filled with impurities. You must wash out your blood, strengthen and stimulate it to healthy action with Nature's own blood tonic, S. S. S. It is the standard blood purifier of the world. Don't use any drugs, don't use ointments and salves. S. S. S. removes the blood drives out the impurities. It makes healthy perspiration—the poison is literally sweated out through the skin. Boils, blotches, Eczema, and the Scrofula indications disappear. It does what salves and lotions can never do—it goes to the very root of the trouble by reaching the blood. Your skin becomes clear and you soon feel the vigor of the return of perfect health. S. S. S. is purely vegetable. You can get it at any druggist's, but you must take S. S. S. Y. M. B. L. PLANS FOR PUBLIC SERVANTS' DAY

BANQUET AT STATE HOUSE WILL BE ORIGINAL AND START-LING AFFAIR.

Visitors Will Be Entertained in Coliseum Also—Winter Resort Committee Makes Report.

Members of the directorate of the Young Men's Business League took additional steps at their regular weekly meeting last night to make the Public Servants' day banquet, November 19, the classiest affair of its kind ever staged in the city. The session was held in the U. D. C. room in the main building at the Cotton Palace, with President Wilford W. Naman presiding and H. Hagedorn, Jr., acting as secretary.

J. J. Hutchison, chairman of the banquet committee, gave an outline of the progress being made in preparation for the Public Servants' day banquet. The event will take place at the New State House and preparations as to decorations and other appointments will be supervised by Col. W. W. Seley of the banquet committee. Chairman Hutchison did not go into details any further than to arouse a keen curiosity as to the schedule and the nature of "astonishments" that will characterize the occasion. From the report, rather the suggested program of the chairman, the "Gridiron Club" that has helped make Washington famous, will seem trifling and merely frivolous in comparison. It will be a banquet at which "Big Texans" are the guests and the "Big Texans" are going to recollect the event as one of the happiest incidents of their illustrious careers.

President Naman will appoint a committee of nine, subdivided into squads of three, to sell tickets to Waco business men for the banquet. The tickets will come at $2.50—they should cost an even five. In connection with the banquet, a committee composed of Robert E. Luge and R. E. L. Montgomery was named to confer with the Cotton Palace management to reserve seats in the coliseum for those purchasing tickets and who may be late in arriving at the coliseum for the speeches during the evening. For it was explained, the banquet is going to be an institution of parts and may extend into early evening. It will adjourn, however, in ample time for those attending to get to the coliseum for the listed "occurrences" out there.

Chairman W. V. Crawford of the Prosperity Dinner November 29, was unable to attend the meeting last night. President Naman reported that progress was being made. It is understood that committees will be named the latter part of this week to take charge of every possible detail. It is going to be a "rapid-fire" preparation—direct, concentrated, thorough. There will be no time for enthusiasm to dampen—it will move from the go. The names of the committees probably will be announced in Sunday morning's paper.

Other business receiving attention last night was detail but important. Each of the standing committees made reports.

Relative to the circular to be sent to members in arrears of dues, no definite action was taken. It was hoped those in arrears would conclude to remit before it became necessary to send them a notice. The matter, however, will be finally disposed of at the next session.

J. H. Quarles, chairman of the winter tourists rate committee, was the first called upon for a report. Mr. Quarles stated he had been too busy because of the work attendant upon the Cotton Palace to make the hoped-for progress. An effort will be made to reach the railroad officials at once. Also an effort will be made to have Waco placed upon all railroad schedules as a tourist rate and application will be made for permission to suspend signs reading "Waco—Tourist Rates," in all the larger union stations of the north and central western cities.

Robert Frazier, chairman of the convention committee, announced that the Texas Field Croquet association and the Texas Horticultural association would meet here January 3, 4 and 5. The Texas Electric association will meet here during the Cotton Palace next year. No definite action has been set.

Chairman J. C. Killgore of the good roads committee, filed a letter in which he had written all railroad and

"The Spirit of Cotton" at the Cotton Palace

Almost typical with the spirit of cotton, which is the spirit of the Cotton Palace, is this cotton picture, the central figure of the exhibit of the state department of agriculture in the agricultural building at the Cotton Palace. With the exception of the frame, every part of the picture is made of cotton. The old negro mammy in the foreground and the rows of open cotton stretching into the background are modeled in relief, which under the hand-some lighting effects present a beautiful picture.

Interurban managers asking that they co-operate with the Y. M. B. L. in repairing grade crossings. It is especially urged that the railroads made the grade crossings equally as good as the McLenahan county roads included in the "Million Dollar Road System."

F. E. Goodman, of the agricultural committee, Elsie Wright, entertainment committee; L. E. Bain, Bell county Cotton Palace visitors committee; William D. Edmonds, industries and factories, and R. E. L. Montgomery, finance, all made favorable reports. P. A. Weathered of the civic improvement committee was not present.

As a final act of business, President Naman appointed D. P. Wallace, chairman, S. B. Price and J. P. Everett a committee to secure automobiles to take the members of the Southwestern Ice Manufacturers' association, now in convention here, for a ride over the city Thursday afternoon. It is thought thirty-five automobiles will be required.

Signora Roberti will give several selections that evening as an added attraction to this feature musical program which will be made up strictly of "requests" from people all over the state.

ARMY AEROPLANES WILL BE HERE NEXT WEEK

TELEGRAM FROM CAPTAIN SAYS
SCHEDULE CANNOT BE CHANGED.

Efforts Had Been Made to Have Big Machines Here During Cotton Palace.

Thousands of Cotton Palace visitors are going to be disappointed. The First Aero squadron, United States army, en route to San Antonio from Fort Sill, will not arrive in Waco until the morning of November 2, or the following morning.

An exchange of telegrams yesterday between Major J. W. Riggs and Capt. B. D. Toulouse, in charge of the signal corps at Fort Sill, Okla., deemed the prospects of having the aero squadron as one of the features of the Cotton Palace telegram sent by Mayor Riggs was as follows:

"B. D. Toulouse, Captain U. S. Signal Corps, Fort Sill, Okla.
"Cotton Palace exposition closes Sunday, twenty-first. If you could spend a night and day, twentieth or twenty-first, it would be a great event, and if you will wire me fully, fixing as early date as possible, will give publicity and will be greatly appreciated by citizens of Central Texas."
"J. W. RIGGS, Mayor.

Captain Toulouse's reply, sent from Fort Sill and received during the afternoon was as follows:
"Present schedule contemplates arrival First Aero squadron at Waco morning of twenty-second or twenty-third. Deeply regret inability to arrive in time for Cotton Palace exposition."
"Captain U. S. Signal Corps."

It was intended by Mayor Riggs and the Cotton Palace management to persuade the army officials to arrange the trip that the aero squadron might arrive here in time for the Cotton Palace visitors to inspect samples of Uncle Sam's aerial fleet. The squadron, which has been stationed at Fort Sill, has been transferred to San Antonio.

Negro Boy Is Held in Connection With Death of Companion

Richard Barnett, 15-year-old negro boy, is being held in the county jail pending investigations into the death yesterday afternoon of Andrew Cotton, another negro, about 20 years old, which occurred in the Katy yards at Belle Mead. According to Barnett's story, which will be investigated today by Coroner J. J. Padgett, Cotton was killed by the accidental discharge of an automatic shotgun which the dead negro was carrying at the time. The body of Cotton was brought to Waco and turned over to his sister, who lives in East Waco.

The two negroes had gone out hunting rabbits, according to Barnett's story, each carrying a shotgun. The older negro was walking in front, and observed that he would go over into a field near the railroad and try to find some rabbits. Barnett said he heard the gun go off, and looked up to see Cotton falling. One charge of shot struck the negro in the head near the left eye. Death was instantaneous.

Three Young Sons of Slain Man Testify in C. M. Oliver Trial

Upon the testimony of three boys, 11, 12 and 13 years of age, all sons of the dead man, probably will depend the conviction or acquittal of C. M. Oliver, now on trial for the murder of W. F. Bowen, near Mart during early September. The twelfth trial juror qualified yesterday morning and the introduction of testimony began immediately after court convened for the afternoon session. The case is being tried before Judge Richard L. Munroe of the Fifty-fourth district court.

The three sons of Bowen testified yesterday. C. Webb, owner of the farm on which Bowen and Oliver were tenants, was killed by his son, Ray Webb, on the same farm the day after he was subpoenaed as a witness in the Oliver case. The rule was invoked immediately after the jury was empaneled yesterday. All the witnesses were sworn and excused from the courtroom until called. The state probably will finish its testimony in this morning. The defense will use about four witnesses in direct examination and a large number of character witnesses. It is thought the jury will be given instructions and retire for a verdict about Thursday afternoon.

QUICKLY STOPS HEAD COLDS AND SNUFFLES

Catarrhal Germs Cause of Most Colds.
New Germicidal Air Treatment
Best Remedy for These Common Ailments.

Upwards of 90 per cent of the so-called colds in the head and throat are in reality dangerous indications of the presence of acute catarrh. When you hear a person sneeze or cough it's almost certain they are throwing catarrh germs into the air for some other person to breathe and it's just as certain that the person breathing these germs will soon have catarrh or a catarrhal cold. The time to make these germs harmless and drive out your catarrhal cold is the very instant you feel a desire to sneeze or cough, or start to snuffle and wipe your nose every few minutes.

The quickest and surest way to stop a head cold and drive catarrh germs out of your system is to pour a few drops of the oil of Hyomei (pronounced High-o-mei) into one of the Hyomei inhalant devices which comes with each large package and place the inhaler between your lips and breathe the germicidal but pleasant smelling air into your nose, throat and lungs. This air utterly destroys all catarrh germ life, quickly opens the closed air passages, makes breathing easy, clears your stuffed up head, cleans out your throat and ends your snuffling and nose blowing. There certainly is no quicker or more satisfactory way of breaking up a cold, even after it is well started, and a few weeks' use will do away with all danger of chronic catarrh. Sold by druggists everywhere, including Powers' Kelly Drug Co., who agrees to return the full purchase price to any who use it and are not satisfied. In buying Hyomei for the first time be very sure to get the large size, which contains the inhaler, as this is very essential for best results.

Cuts Received in Fight May Be Fatal to Baylis Edens

Baylis Edens, young white man, was perhaps fatally cut in a difficulty with Venson Edwards, another young white man, on South Fourth street yesterday afternoon. Edens received stab wounds which penetrated the lung cavity. He was carried to the Providence sanitarium by the police ambulance, where it was stated last night that his condition was serious. Edwards, who is a son of H. D. Edwards of Oglesby, was arrested at his home at Oglesby by Gatesville officers. Edwards escaped after the fight. Chief McNamara telephoned Sheriff Hollingsworth at Gatesville and the Corryville county officer made the arrest. The boy's home, where he had gone directly after the fight. Crawford Calls Meet Executive Committee of State Ad Clubs

To arrange for the meeting of the Texas Associated Ad club annual meeting at El Paso this year, President W. V. Crawford of this city has called a meeting of the executive committee in Fort Worth on December 6. Chief among the arrangements will be the selection of the chief speaker on the program, who in all probability will be a man out of the state with a national reputation among the advertising profession. Mr. Crawford is a member of the executive committee by virtue of his office.

Indications are that the El Paso meeting will be marked by a program of the first rank, said Mr. Crawford yesterday. Matters that will be presented for consideration at the annual convention will be discussed at the committee's meeting in the Panther City next month.

Committee Asks Funds to Entertain Orphan Children

Plans are being made to take the children of the Orphans' Home to the Cotton Palace Friday morning. Those who are interested in seeing that these little folks enjoy to the fullest the pleasures of the Palace will please leave their donations with the Morning News or write any one of the following ladies who have been interested themselves, with others in seeing that these children are given this pleasure: Mrs. John B. High School Girls Make Hit With Dainty Breakfast at Palace

There were ten people in Waco who went to bed in a happy and contented frame of mind last night. The contentment was due to the fact that they had the pleasure of dining upon a meal that was perfectly prepared and artistically served, by eleven perfectly good looking and unusually capable young ladies.

To begin with, the meal was in the form of a breakfast served at supper time. Somersaulting the usual dining arrangements of ten people would ordinarily cause trouble and excitement. But this was no ordinary meal. It was decidedly extraordinary as to quality, quantity and appearance. The scene of this delightful feasting was in the domestic science department of the Waco High school, located in the home industry building at the Cotton Palace. This department is under the supervision of Miss Jennie Hylton, known throughout the country as one of the leading instructors of the most common sense department of the public schools.

The meal was prepared in every detail by the following young ladies who are seniors in the High school: Mary Emma Miller, L. E. Polk, Marguerite Fuller, Ruby Fairly, Thelma Cox, Mary Jo Gage, Ida Rosenberg, Mildred Moore, Lottie Farmer, Emma Pfeiffer and Irene Beatty. They were neatly and attractively gowned in snow white dresses. Their appearance was such that stewed rubber heels and tripe marmalade served in a wash tub would have tasted like angel food and porthouse steak.

This, however, is what they did serve: Grapefruit, oatmeal, cooked two hours and served with real genuine thoroughbred cow cream; broiled steak that would make fried chicken seem grisly and cheap; French fried potatoes that just melted between the lips of the diners without going through the formality of chewing; biscuits of a quality that would make an old settler among the angels leave his perpetual home of happiness; orange marmalade that would tickle the palate of a dead man, and coffee that would soothe the digestive apparatus of a chronic dyspeptic.

Miss Hylton gave this breakfast for the chief purpose of demonstrating just how cheaply a first class meal could be served for ten people. The total cost was $1.50.

The taxpayers of Waco have every reason to be proud of the most excellent work that is being done in this department of the public schools. It means many better and happier homes.

The ten fortunate ones who attended the breakfast were Mrs. W. O. Wilkes, W. J. Neale, B. B. Cobb, S. N. Mayfield, Dr. A. L. Lincecum, Miss Kate Friend, Mrs. J. L. Landrum, Mrs. W. E. Brazelton, Mrs. A. M. Martin and H. O. Bishop.

Attractive Float in Waco Day Parade.

D.M. Wilson, proprietor of the D. M. Wilson Lumber company, was right in the middle of the job in the Waco day parade last week. A miniature house, with the carpenter at work, was carried on a large truck. Mr. Wilson, figuring the cost of the job, was seated inside the unfinished roof. The float was one of the most unique in the parade and attracted much attention.

Six Theatre Managers Must Answer Charges of Opening Sunday

Complaints charging violation of the state Sunday closing laws were filed yesterday in the county court against proprietors of six theatres who kept their places open one or more Sundays during the Cotton Palace. The complaints, which were filed by Assistant County Attorney D. C. Woods, on information made by Sheriff S. S. Fleming, were against J. A. Lemke, manager of the Crystal theatre; R. C. Horne, manager of the Queen; W. L. Terry, Alamo; Edgar Momand, Rex; J. P. Everett, Hippodrome, and Miss Gussie Oscar, Auditorium. They will be required to appear before the court and give bond and their cases probably will be set for trial next week.

The complaints against Lemke, Horne and Terry charge two offenses in that they opened their theatres and charged admission fees on Sunday, November 7, and Sunday, November 14. The complaints against the other three charge but one offense, Sunday, November 14. The punishment as fixed by the statute may be a fine of not less than $20 nor more than $50 for each offense.

It is understood the managers decided to open their theatres and take chances with the law on the ground that the Cotton Palace was permitted to open its gates to the public on Sunday. Also that the concessions on the War Path, where admission fees were charged, also were permitted to run.

Country on Verge of Greatest Prosperity, Says V. C. McIntire

"I am convinced that this country is on the verge of the greatest era of prosperity in its history," said V. C. McIntire, local sales agent for the National Cash Register company, on his return to Waco yesterday from Dayton, Ohio, where he attended a three-day convention of the company's 800 salesmen in the United States and Canada.

"While in Dayton I made it a special point to talk to men from every section of North America," said Mr. McIntire. "Without a single exception everyone expressed himself as convinced that business conditions are rapidly improving."

"Mr. John H. Patterson, the president of the company, who met with us in convention daily, told us that a wave of unprecedented prosperity is moving across the country. It has not struck all lines yet, but the basic industries have felt it. The steel industry is an illustration of this point. In the steel districts I was told that the mills are flooded with orders which they cannot accept."

"Our salesmen regularly visit every retail merchant in the country. From interviews with these thousands of merchants, our men conclude that today the country is 100 per cent better off than it was a year ago."

Mr. McIntire said that the convention was one of the most unusual gatherings of commercial men ever held in this country. Daily sessions were held in the big N. C. R. "Schoolhouse," a monumental building which seats 1200. The problems of the merchant were discussed, and talks were made on such subjects as training clerks, window displays, store systems, etc., according to Mr. McIntire. He also said several Dayton merchants addressed the convention, telling of their experience with cash registers.

The last night of the convention the salesmen were escorted to their trains by 5000 Dayton employees of the cash register company. Red torches and banners, announcing that "Business Is Booming," were carried by the marchers.

Butchers' Employees Invited to Visit Pure Food Exhibit

Butchers and meat market men and their employees are especially invited to visit the exhibit of the city pure food department, which is conducted in connection with the state health board exhibit in the north end of the made-in-Waco building at the Cotton Palace. The exhibit contains a complete range of specimens showing tuberculosis and other diseases in meats. The purpose of the exhibit is to acquaint those handling meat consumed in the city with the various diseases and teach them how to detect the presence of disease in meat, to prevent its being sold unknowingly.

Of special interest in the exhibit of the city pure food department is a number of specimens showing tuberculosis in dairy cows, all of which were taken from dairy animals condemned and killed in Fort Worth under government supervision. The exhibit also includes a number of specimens of pork worms which produce tape worms in the human body when the pork is eaten. Some specimens of worms in the liver of a duck which was killed in Waco also are shown.

Some of the large pennants about the walls of the exhibit are those bearing the words, "Demand Pure Food," "Be Sure Your Family Cow is Free from Tuberculosis," "Clean, Pure Milk for Babies," "Healthy Cows Produce Healthy Milk," "Visit Your Milkman's Dairy," "Visit Your Grocer's Store," and "Visit Your Butcher's Shop."

Mr. R. H. Hodges, city pure food inspector, and Dr. A. L. Lincecum of the state board of health, are always present to explain the exhibits and answer questions. An invitation is extended to all to visit the booth.

Why careful mothers use Resinol Soap

There are three excellent reasons why Resinol Soap appeals so strongly to the mother who wishes to protect her baby's delicate skin from the eruptions and irritations which soothen make life miserable for little folks: It gives a free, creamy and unusually cleansing lather, in either hard or soft water.

Its ingredients are pure and utterly wholesome, with no trace of free alkali—that harsh, drying chemical which many soap-makers find difficult and expensive to remove.

And best of all, it contains the soothing, healing Resinol medication that physicians have prescribed for years, in Resinol Ointment, for skin affections—just enough of it to keep the skin soft and cool, and to make baby's bath an insurance against skin-troubles.

If the skin already is in bad condition, with patches of rash, chafing or eczema, a little Resinol Ointment should at first be used to help the Resinol Soap restore its natural health. Resinol Soap is sold by all druggists and dealers in toilet goods. For a trial size cake, write to Dept. 15-P, Resinol, Evansville, Ind., U.S.A.

WACO HIGH TO MEET NORTH FORT WORTH

PANTHER CITY ELEVEN WILL CLAIM STATE CHAMPIONSHIP
IF IT WINS HERE.

(By Frank G. Evans, Football Writer for the Fort Worth Record.)

Fort Worth, Nov. 16.—Followers of the North Fort Worth High school football team are anxiously awaiting for the outcome of the gridiron clash Thursday in Waco between North Side and the strong Waco High eleven. Victory is hoped for but not expected to any great extent. However, it is believed that when Waco has defeated the Fort Worth representatives they will agree that they played a game bunch with never-give-up spirit.

Cochman Meyers of Kentucky, who has been the successful coach of the North Side team for three years, never lets his men enter a contest thinking they already have it won. He detests confidence. He believes in instilling a fighting spirit in his men. It has been this that has caused North Side to establish such a good record under his guidance. Meyers is a man who knows football mixes with his men and knows how to teach them football.

Last year every team in North Texas that met North Side was defeated and after winning the championship in this section of the state they met Austin High, South Texas title holders, and lost their first game. This year with practically all the letters men back it was believed that a better record would be established by the locals. However they were off to a bad start and although they now possess an undefeated record they have scored most of their games by small scores.

After their 1914 "clean-up" Manager Walthall found it difficult to match games with North Texas teams. This caused North Side to remain idle for two weeks and also put them one week late in starting off their 1915 season.

If North Side should succeed in defeating Waco they will claim the championship of the entire state, as they recognize the Waco eleven as being as strong as any squad in Texas. And Waco fans will not be disappointed if they are expecting North Texas' strongest high school representatives to oppose their high school Thursday.

While the North Fort Worth team is not built around any certain man it can not be said that they have no individual stars. Ask any player that has ever played against McMillan, left halfback, if the Fort Worth star could not make any high school eleven in the state. His broken field punning and ability to put and to return punts has caused much favor from the sidelines in games in which he has played. Overton at right half and James at full are two more good backfield men but are not quite in McMillan's class. Hopkins at quarter has made his best showing by using his head at critical times.

The North Side line is not a heavy one but works together and it is no easy matter to "find a hole." While the forward pass has predominated in most of the games played by Coach Meyers' pupils both last year and this year, they have some excellent backfield formations that are quick, snappy and hard to break up. Walthall and Bell are good men and are often on the receiving end of forward passes for good gains. Weaver at center is a good passer with two years high school experience.

In summing up the North Side team it might be said that Waco will be meeting a fast, medium weight, hard working squad, full of "pep," well drilled by an able coach, using a set of signals and formations very seldom found on a high school squad, and carrying a good list of ready substitutes.

MARKET REPORT

WHEAT

By the Associated Press.

Chicago, Nov. 16.—Demoralized conditions which the export trade has encountered as a result of the Italian government withdrawing for military purposes a number of steamships gave a setback today to the value of wheat. Closing prices, although steady, showed a net decline of 1/4¢ with December at $1.04 1/4 and May at $1.06 1/4. Corn lost 1/4¢ to 1/2¢ and oats 1/4¢. Provisions finished at a range varying from 5 cents decline to a rise of 2 1/2¢.

Nervousness regarding the ocean freight situation began to be manifest shortly after business opened in the wheat pit. Abnormal advances in tonnage rates seemed to have put a stop to charters, and it was not long before a sharp decline in prices was in progress on the part of exporters, whose contracts had been interfered with by the requisitioning of vessels. Other holders and a good many speculators added to the bear pressure, which, despite one divided rally, proved sufficient to leave the market in the end at substantially the lowest point of the day.

Sharp selling in receipts at Minneapolis had considerable effect in preventing wheat bears from becoming more aggressive, and so also did the unsettled weather. Besides, the Liverpool market was firm. Absence of export demand, however, finally became too evident to allow any immediate return of strength on the bull side.

Corn maintained a stubborn front in view of the break in wheat. Unfavorable weather and the chances of a shortage of cars tended to uphold prices. Oats merely reflected the changes in quotations on corn. Trade here was almost entirely local, but the seaboard sent word of 100,000 bushels taken for export.

In buying on the part of packers led to a nearly complete rally. At first the market had been decidedly weak, owing to much enlarged receipts of hoofs.

COTTON
By The Associated Press.

New York, Nov. 16.—The spread of killing temperatures in the eastern United States has created a general or aggressive demand in the cotton market today and prices worked lower under liquidation. January contracts sold off to 11.72¢ and the market closed barely steady at a net decline of 1/2¢ to 1 1/2¢.

The market opened steady at a decline of 1/2¢ to 1 1/2¢ and sold 12 to 14 points net lower during the middle of the morning under offerings from local and southern sources. There was evidently a feeling that killing temperatures in the south had appeared too late in the season to justify any change in estimates of yield, and the early selling seemed to be encouraged by the talk of full ginning returns in the southwest and the absence of any important demand.

There was some covering at the decline, however, and, following rumors that the returns of a southern establishment indicated a ginning of 8,000,000 bales to November 1, prices rallied some 5 or 6 points from the lowest. But aside from scattering covering there was little improvement in the volume of support, and the market turned easier again during the afternoon under a renewal of near-month liquidation, with December selling at 11.55¢ and March at 11.95¢ in the late trading. A good deal of the business was in the way of switching from near to late months, and Liverpool straddle interests were credited with transferring the short end of their commitments in the local market from January and March to May and July at advantageous differences.

A private crop estimate published here before the opening placed the yield at 11,675,524 bales, excluding linters, which with an allowance of 500,000 bales for linters would point to a total growth of about 12,200,000 bales. Some of the local statisticians thought that a ginning of $8,000,000 bales to November 14 would also point to a crop in the neighborhood of 12,000,000, as compared with returns to the same date in 1910.

New Orleans.

New Orleans, Nov. 16.—Cotton again worked to lower levels today under small trading. The close was at a net loss of 12 to 14 points, or within a point of the lowest. The market was depressed from the opening, but several lines reactions of a half dozen points took place without, however, developing any real buying power.

The continued cold weather over the cotton region with freezing temperatures and hard to killing frosts in many important sections failed to stimulate buying, although expectations of such a cold snap caused bullish excitement last week. Bullish forecasts of the pending ginning report from the census bureau also fell flat. One prominent forecast was 8,000,000 bales, as compared with 11,671,000 a year ago.

At times the market was under considerable selling pressure and it was generally considered that it came partly from liquidating longs, partly from short sellers and from spot interests which were selling hedges.

For the Children's Sweet Tooth—Healthful Raisin Bread

Raisins are nature's confection—pure, wholesome and healthful—and here is delicious raisin bread that contains the finest raisins grown.

Ask for "California Raisin Bread" made with SUN-MAID RAISINS. These are California raisins—big, plump, meaty, tender—with all the seeds extracted. Their flavor permeates the loaf. Children delight in this bread—it's both good and good for them. Don't let your family go any longer without it.

Raisins are concentrated nutrition. It's economy to serve them in any form. Learn the benefits of this luscious fruit-food. See why you should serve it daily.

California Raisin Bread SUN-MAID RAISINS

You will like this Raisin Bread because it is made with this kind of raisins

This brand is made from choice California white grapes—grapes too delicate to ship fresh to markets. They are sun-dried in the open vineyards. They come to you in clean cartons—neat, plump and pure.

Three varieties: Seeded (seeds extracted); Seedless (made from seedless grapes); Cluster (on stems, not seeded).

Evolution of Cookery Subject of Lecture by Mrs. Landrum

Cookery of primitive times, with the utensils used, and the progressive changes that have made modern cookery as scientific as it is, will be discussed in an illustrated lecture by Mrs. J. L. Landrum of the Department of Agriculture, this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the tent east of the Agriculture building at the Cotton Palace. Chalk sketches of the first vessel used for cooking and the old-time fireplaces will be made by Miss Margaret

Greene of Dallas, who is at present connected with the state department's exhibits at the exposition.

Following the lecture, at 4:30 o'clock a children's story will be told and illustrated in the tent. All children who are visiting the Palace at the time have a cordial invitation to be present at this children's hour.

Mrs. Landrum will leave immediately after the lecture to attend the Grayson County Girls' Canning club meeting at Denison. She is the state organizer and supervisor of the State Canning clubs.

The people who are taking Oxidine are being relieved of chills and fevers. Why don't you do likewise? At all drug stores.—(Adv.)

ICEMAKERS' GATHER FOR BOYS' AGRICULTURE TWENTY-FIRST MEETING CAMP LOWERS FLAG

FIVE STATES REPRESENTED IN CONVENTION NOW IN SESSION.

Mayor Delivers Address of Welcome. First of Entertainment Features Will Take Place Tonight.

More than five score members of the Southwestern Ice Manufacturers' association who convened at the Y. M. H. hall yesterday for their twenty-first annual convention, were given formal and cordial welcome by Mayor J. W. Riggs. P. L. Downs of Temple responded in behalf of the ice men. Carl Giltch, Shreveport, also was prominent in responding to the mayor's address of welcome, but he did not arrive in the city until last night.

In the absence of President John L. Hill of Smithville, L. J. Nathan, vice president, presided. Immediately after the social features, always pleasant and invariably a happy part of all well regulated conclaves, President Nathan caused his associate ice-makers to get down to business. The work was hurried that an adjournment might be taken at noon for a visit to the Cotton Palace and get better acquainted with Waco.

Following the registration, J. J. Fox, St. Louis, was appointed sergeant-at-arms. The position is entirely honorary. Reading of applications of membership and a discussion of the question of whether "Ice is a Food" also were on the agenda. The attention of the convention was raised by Secretary J. C. Mitchell, Temple, who explained that he had been called upon by the state pure food commission to give a license fee. Secretary Mitchell stated he had refused payment pending an opinion from his lawyers. The convention took no action upon the matter.

H. S. Robbins, St. Louis, J. C. Kennedy, Breunham, and A. C. Booty, Tyler, were appointed as a committee of condolence. This committee will report resolutions lamenting the death of E. Arnoldi, the oldest member of the association, who recently died at his home in Sherman.

Other committees were as follows: By-Laws—M. A. Marnus, Wichita Falls; Carl Nessler, Galveston; A. N. Lee, Coleman. Auditing—B. H. Brown, Houston; W. W. Rogers, Sherman; Joe Kittrell, Temple.

The real convention begins this morning. An additional score of members arrived yesterday afternoon and last night. The New State House lobby is crowded with Southwestern ice men. More, perhaps, will come today. It is estimated that an attendance of two hundred will be registered.

Proceedings will begin promptly at 9 o'clock this morning. D. F. Solli-day, of the Steffins company, Oklahoma City, is the first on the program. He will read a paper, "The Raw Water System." G. F. Bein, Fort Worth, will follow with another paper upon "The Small Refrigerating Machine as an Auxiliary Unit." A general discussion by members will be the next order of business as programmed.

The afternoon session will start with a paper read by former President Thomas Burruss, Jonesboro, Ark., upon a selected subject, A. N. Linval, Dallas, will read a paper entitled "Modern Construction of Ice and Cold Storages." J. V. Singleton will close the program with a paper upon "Best Way of Boosting Membership and Attendance."

The entertainment committee will explain regarding the cabaret dinner at the Huaco club that there may be no confusion in getting tickets and transportation to the club. The special feature of the dinner, which will take place this evening, will be kept as a surprise. The feature was created particularly for the visiting ladies.

AL. G. FIELDS SCORES AGAIN

S. R. O. Crowds Greet Minstrel Favorite on Annual Visit—Some Good Numbers.

Al G. Field and his greater minstrel appeared at the Auditorium last night and everybody from this and surrounding towns who could get standing room, came to hand to laugh at the jokes, appreciate the music and applaud the dancing. For notwithstanding the fact that some of the purest comedy and humor was told in the inimitable style of the Field comedians and were as laughable as if they had just come from the joke factory.

Opening with a scene depicting life on the Mississippi, the program in its first scene called for a reproduction of a steamship with cotton and other products of the river valley, after which the boat departed for its destination and cleared the stream for a reproduction of the famous race from New Orleans to St. Louis between the Robert E. Lee and the Natchez, after which there was a happy introduction of choruses, glees and serenades reminiscent of the early days of minstrelsy and very apropos to the stage setting.

The second scene depicted the interior of the grand salon or cabin of the Robert E. Lee, where Bert Swor and Joe Coffman regaled their audience with a variety of side-splitting humor and a number of catchy songs were introduced. John Healy, representing an aged negro of the slavery period, opened the singing with "Old Black Joe," supported by a strong chorus. His singing and dancing were even better than his singing and dancing were demanded. Among the popular song hits were, "I Love You Best of All," sung by Walter Sherwood, "You Will Always Be the Same Sweet Girl," sung by R. W. Church, "Little Gray Mother," by Jack Richards, and "Strolling Along," by the vocal medley sung by Herbert Williams. Comic songs during this scene were "When It's Night Time Down in Dixie Land," by Joe Coffman, "I Wasn't Sent But I Just Thought I Had Better Go," by Harry G. Shunk, and "The St. Louis Blues," by Bert Swor.

In his "Dancing Fancies," Denzie O'Neill introduced a decided novelty and a very popular one in "The Phantom Fight." Bert Swor had the audience well-entertained at the time the hotel scene in which he appeared as the porter, while Murphy and Quinn in "Merry Moments in Music Land," in which they introduced a number of instruments to great advantage, proved themselves stars of the first magnitude.

The last regular scene was "Auntie Skinner's Chicken Dinner Party," or "Peace in Mexico," in which a bright negro won his place as a comedian by reminding the court of how the defendant had stolen for the benefit of the court when the latter was a soldier during the Civil War, and agreeing to do as much for him again if he were only set free. William Jennings Bryan also appeared in his role as mediator, proposing to arbitrate the Mexican situation, and a goodly number of laughs were enjoyed at the comedian's expense.

Four tableaux, hardly up to the field standard, concluded the program—the first depicting Washington crossing the Delaware, the second, "The Spirit of '76," "Peace and Our Army and Navy," Mr. Field was given an ovation when he appeared on the stage in the second scene.

EVERYBODY SATISFIED WITH FIRST YEAR AT COTTON PALACE.

H. H. Williamson in Charge States That Plans Are Being Made for Larger Camp Next Fall.

The flag was lowered at Camp Sanger on the Cotton Palace grounds at 6 p. m. yesterday until 1916. A large number of the agricultural club members from the various counties of the state departed last night for their respective homes. The remainder will depart today. When departing each expressed a regret that the encampment was at an end, but hoped that they would have the opportunity of attending another some time in the future. Before breaking camp, the members extended a vote of thanks to the A. & M. College, the Cotton Palace, the Boys' Scout organization, Company K of the Texas National Guard and Asher Sanger, president of the Cotton Palace, for the entertainment and valuable instruction given them.

H. H. Williamson, assistant state agent in charge of the boys' agricultural club work of Texas, stated that "this is the first encampment of this character that has ever been held in the state, and that its success was far beyond the expectation of those who promoted it. Its success was not due to the efforts of any one organization or individual, but to the co-operative efforts of the A. & M. College, the Cotton Palace, the Boys' Scout organization, Company K, and the Y. M. C. A. organization. It was an encampment of the boys' agricultural club by the young agriculturists who attended and its good influence will be far reaching."

The morning program consisted of lectures and demonstrations on agricultural topics. The first on the program was by Dr. K. H. Williams, the native varieties of nuts by budding and grafting. He demonstrated the various methods of grafting. The other numbers on the program consisted of short talks by Mr. Banzhaf, county agent for Milam county; W. G. Hand, county agent for DeWitt county; J. S. Sebesta, county agent for Fayette county, and others.

After lunch the boys were entertained in camp by a forceful lecture by Frank W. Stegman, secretary for Texas A. & M. College, whose subject was "Community Leadership." He told them of the importance of the boys' agricultural club in their respective communities and becoming useful leaders—leaders that would render a service to mankind.

Mr. Williamson stated that plans will be made in a short time for a larger encampment at the Cotton Palace for 1916.

OUR POLICY "THE PUBLIC BE PLEASED"

SEAT SALE FOR BRYAN GAME TO CLOSE TODAY Texas-A. & M. Game is Important, Says Downs

INDICATIONS ARE THAT MORE THAN 300 WILL GO DOWN ON WACO SPECIAL.

Train Will Arrive on Return Trip in Time for Society Ball at Cotton Palace.

The advance sale of seats for the football game at College Station on Friday will close tonight at 6 o'clock. For the past ten days seats have been on sale at Sam Freund's store No. 2, Fifth and Austin streets. About 100 tickets have been sold to Waco people. Most of the out-of-town excursionists expect to buy their tickets at A. & M. on arrival there Friday. Indicating the enthusiasm with which people of central Texas are greeting the excursion, an order for ten railroad tickets for one party out of Temple was received yesterday, and Marlin people asked that an entire car on the special be set aside for their use.

The hour set for the excursion's return to Waco, 8:30 Friday night, makes it possible for those who so desire to attend the society ball at the Cotton Palace. The excursion and the ball in no way conflict. Langston Lucade, in charge of the excursion, said: "The grand march will not start before 10 o'clock." W. D. Lacy, Jr., in charge of the presentation of debutantes, which will precede the ball, said: "We will start the presentation as soon after 9 o'clock as possible." As the band concert will not be scheduled to end until 9:30, however, it is probable that the presentation will not begin until near 10 o'clock, and that the grand march will start nearer 11 than 10 o'clock. The special train will leave Waco at 9 o'clock Friday morning.

R. W. Burleson, an A. & M. man, of San Saba, has reserved seats for a party of twelve from that city who will make the trip with the Waco bunch. Walter Hummick of Marlin advises that reserved seats for the game are held by probably 16 people in Marlin, who will go down on the Waco train, with others from that city. Pink Downs, Jr., of Temple has reserved seats for a party of ten from Temple.

Col. Downs, who is one of the best known business men of the state, represents the advanced thought among the more mature supporters of both big state institutions. "We want not only the young men with their enthusiasm at the game Friday, but we want also the business men of the state who have the best interests of both schools at heart. The game Friday is more significant than a mere resumption of athletic relations after an interruption of three years. If the relations between the supporters of the two schools at the game tomorrow are not satisfactory, no matter who wins, it will be a severe blow to both. Dr. Bizzell of A. & M. and Dr. Battle of Texas University have made an arrangement that if any of the old animosities crop out at the game Friday athletic relations will be forever severed. This is not all, if the old animosities are renewed supporters of the two institutions all over the state will be brought into conflict. The interests of both institutions before the legislature and in every other way will suffer. For this reason we want the older and steadier alumni and ex-students of both institutions to be present to act as a restraining influence to any conflict, however small, which might result from the enthusiasm of the youngsters. We want to disseminate the idea that whichever team loses must be a good loser, good sportsman, in other words, men. We want this game to mark the placing of relations between the two schools on a higher plane all around."

Col. Downs was one of the first students to be graduated from the A. & M. college, his school days being between '76 and '79. P. L. Downs, Jr., Col. Downs' son, also an ex-cadet, has reserved ten seats in the special train which will carry Waco football fans to the game Friday.
